

Communists Stepping Up Campaign To Deflate Stalin Myth

(By The Associated Press) The Kremlin campaign to deflate the myth of Stalin as a demigod gathered momentum today on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Moscow itself was calm, but through the veil of censorship came reports of disturbances in the Georgian birthplace of the dead Soviet dictator.

Student groups loyal to Stalin's memory demonstrated in the Georgian capital of Tiflis but few details seeped out.

The New York Times, quoting diplomatic sources in the United States, said the Soviet government had imposed security measures and travel controls in some sectors because of repercussions from the attack on Stalin. It reported air travel suspended to Caucasus area cities since March 8, "second day of demonstrations in Tiflis."

The Times said the impact on ordinary Soviet citizens apparently was more extreme than the government had expected.

Throughout the vast stretches of the Soviet Union, Communist activists spread the new line, first in meetings of the party's local leadership and then by word of mouth to an ever widening audience.

Outside the Iron Curtain, Communist leaders were climbing aboard the new Red bandwagon with strong denunciations or mild rebukes of the dead leader they once publicly venerated. But an undertone of confusion prevailed.

The Russian censorship did not permit correspondents to report a full account of the anti-Stalin campaign and reactions inside the Soviet Union. But their dispatches told a surprising amount. Reports of Western diplomats and travelers, particularly foreign Communist leaders returning to their homelands from the Soviet party's 20th Congress in Moscow, filled in other details.

Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev kicked off the campaign Feb. 24 at the Congress. Reports said he accused Stalin of murdering thousands of his party associates and the flower of the Red army officer corps in the great purges of the 1930s and committing incredible blunders in the war against Hitler.

Khrushchev said further that Stalin lived in constant fear of plots and reacted by terrorizing his associates.

The Soviet party's new Central committee put out a letter embodying the secret Khrushchev speech so the party faithful could spread the anti-Stalin line at meetings throughout the nation.

In Moscow, Stalin pictures and statues were disappearing from such public places as the Tchaikovsky Concert Hall, the Tretyakoff Gallery and the Red army's Central Theater. Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, called for an acceleration of among the armed forces.

Red Star's position indicated that the army and Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov are strongly backing Khrushchev and his "collective leadership" in their efforts to deflate Stalin.

Hearing on Stored Wheat Tax Case from Here Is on Tuesday

A decision in one phase of the verbal tug-of-war between Fayette County's treasurer, Charles A. Fabb, and the state Department of Taxation commissioner, Stanley J. Bowers, over payment of the personal property taxes on wheat in storage under government loan to 'ay was in prospect for the immediate future.

This was disclosed in a letter just received by Fabb from Ray M. White, the secretary to Gov. Frank J. Lausche. This letter said a case involving the personal property tax assessed against a Fayette County taxpayer (not further identified) for wheat stored under loan had been set for hearing Tuesday.

When the decision in the case will be made, however, is conjectural.

Fabb has contended that the tax is inequitable and unfair because the money goes, not to the district in which it was stored, but to the district in which it is stored; that the rate of tax varies in accordance with the rates of the districts in which it is stored; and that some grain is not taxed at all if it is shipped outside the state for storage.

Going to bat for the farmers of Fayette County, Fabb eventually went direct to the governor in an effort to have the tax declared illegal through an opinion of the state's attorney general.

In his reply, the governor's secretary said the Gov. Lausche would suggest that the matter be brought to the attention of the attorney general.

LATER, Fayette County's treasurer was advised that inasmuch as there was an application for review and redetermination of a wheat tax case before the tax commissioner, the attorney general would not enter the controversy until this case is disposed of.

In reply to this letter, Fabb pointed out that this application (by a Fayette County not otherwise identified) had been made "as long ago as October, 1955," and he noted that "now the interests of many Fayette County people... justify prompt attention."

It was in reply to this letter by Fabb that White wrote that the hearing on the application (made last October) would be held Tuesday.

White also made it plain in his letter to Fabb that the tax commissioner considered that "such taxes (wheat stored under loan) have become final and... are to be collected by your office in the manner provided by law."

Meanwhile, personal property taxes are now in the process of collection here.

Fabb, while staunchly maintaining that farmers should not have to pay the tax, admits there is little chance for escaping the tax this year but he said he had hopes that relief from it might come before the next collection period.

Author Louis Bromfield Dies

COLUMBUS (AP) — Louis Bromfield, Pulitzer Prize-winning author, newspaper columnist and militant advocate of soil conservation, died here last night. He was 59.

His physician said death was due to kidney and liver failure caused by a "jaundice infection." Bromfield was admitted to University hospital Feb. 28 suffering from "homologous jaundice."

Friends said he had been in a coma the last 24 hours.

Bromfield's literary career, which started with the publication of "The Green Bay Tree," reached its zenith when he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1926 for his novel "Early Autumn." It was a story of a Massachusetts family.

Bromfield traveled widely and some of his more than two score novels reflect the scenes he visited. Many of them also were made into motion pictures.

He purchased five farms 12 miles from Mansfield where he was born Dec. 27, 1896. He christened the 1,000-acre "Malabar Farm" after a section of the India coast where he once lived.

There he set about conducting experiments in scientific farming and soil conservation. He wrote many articles on the subject.

Bromfield is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Hope Bromfield Stevens of Leesburg, Va.; Miss Anne Bromfield of Malabar Farm; and Mrs. Ellen Bromfield Carson of Malabar Farm de Brazil, near Itaituba, Brazil.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two union groups which would have to approve any settlement of the Westinghouse strike were called to meet today amid reports a tentative compromise has been reached.

Settlement of the walkout, now in its 155th day, would end the longest major strike in the last 20 years. About 55,000 employees of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. are involved, 45,000 of them members of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE).

The union's full negotiating committee was called today to a day meeting, and its Westinghouse conference board was to meet tonight. The board includes representatives of all 30 Westinghouse IUE locals.

Tentative agreement was reported reached by union president James B. Carey and Robert D. Blasie, vice president and chief negotiator for Westinghouse, at an all-night meeting which lasted until 7 a. m. yesterday.

The report was not confirmed and no details of any settlement plan were announced.

IN PITTSBURGH, however, the Post-Gazette said it had learned that 36 workers discharged for alleged strike violence "would be considered under an indefinite suspension rather than discharged."

It called that "a concession from the company."

The company previously had accepted a package settlement proposal by federal mediators which included re-employment of 57 discharged workers with neutral arbitration of the cases of the remaining 36. The union sought to deal with the 36 in negotiations.

Joseph F. Finnegan, federal mediation director, declined to comment on developments.

The fate of the 36 discharged workers had provided the major stumbling block during the last week. There was substantial agreement on most other issues, on the basis of the mediators' package proposal.

The principal provision was for a five-year contract providing annual pay raises of 5 to 17 cents an hour and pension-insurance improvements. Workers averaged $2.10 an hour before the strike.

Another son, Wendel, 21, is now with the Navy in Japan. He will join his parents in Colorado when he is discharged this fall and will enter the University of Colorado.

Their daughter Miss Julie Braden, will continue teaching in Columbus until summer when she will join her parents in Colorado.

Part of Service Station To Go

The Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc., has asked for and obtained a permit from City Manager James F. Parkinson to remove the remainder of the brick portion of its service station at the junction of Court Street, Columbus and Washington Avenues next to the Fayette County Historical Society's Museum property.

The oil company holds a lease on the property for some two years more it is understood.

The property is owned by Earl Powell of Florida. When extensive changes were started in the station with a view to remodeling it along new lines last October, a permit was refused and the work halted.

Subsequent efforts to obtain a permit by going before the zoning Board of Appeals failed when the board refused to grant a permit on the grounds that the city zoning ordinance had been violated when the building was partly demolished before a permit was sought and denied.

Indications are that the work of tearing out the remainder of the brick portion of the service station will proceed without delay.

The frame building next to the Museum building, is not included in the present permit, it is noted, and so far as known will not be disturbed at present.

Another Try Is Predicted Toward High Farm Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today advocates of higher government farm price supports may make one more effort to raise them in the pending omnibus farm bill.

"There has been some discussion of adding a gadget that would freeze part of our surpluses in a national security reserve and thus permit higher supports," Mundt said.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has such an amendment pending, but opponents of high-level supports have said they would fight its adoption.

Leaders expected to resume action on the catch-all farm bill sometime late today. It has been pending since Feb. 22.

Pushed ahead of it for consideration today were 194 routine measures piled up on the legislative calendar.

As the farm bill moved slowly toward passage, Sen. Cotton (R-NH) contended that "some Democrats are trying to delay and sabotage this bill."

HE ADDED that they "want to fizzle up the farm program because it is the only peg they can hang their hats on" in the elections.

But Sen. Ellender (D-La.) replied that "much of the delay is the direct responsibility of the Republicans" who, he said, demanded a Senate recess for Lincoln Day political speeches and have since talked at length on the bill in Senate debate.

Humphrey's pending "national security reserve amendment would direct that some surplus farm products be set aside in a strategic stockpile to be used only in time of disaster, war or similar emergency."

In fixing the level of government supports, the secretary of agriculture is directed to consider the existing supply, along with estimated demand, anticipated production and other factors.

Under Humphrey's proposal, he could ignore surpluses and so increase the level of supports.

In Minnesota, Adlai E. Stevenson said the GOP is lying about the farm issue and the precedent for it "comes from the very top of this Republican administration."

Stevenson declared: "The Republicans not only have failed to do anything constructive about the farm problem but they are not even telling you the truth about what they are doing."

"BUT I WILL have to admit that there is a precedent for that—and it comes from the very top of this Republican administration."

The former Illinois governor went on to say it isn't just a "mat-

Petitions of Protest Filed Here Saturday

56% Of Voters Veto Proposed Transfer Into City District

The on-again — off-again transfer of territory from the Miami Trace school district to the Washington C. H. district appeared today to be in the "off-again" class.

Last month, after a series of conferences among members of the city, the Fayette County and the Miami Trace boards, agreements were reached to transfer a band of territory surrounding the city from the Miami Trace district and into that of the city district.

Saturday, petitions of remonstrance (protest) were filed in the office of W. J. Hilty, clerk of the county school board and superintendent of the county schools.

The petitions, bearing 110 signatures, protested the transfer and requested that the county and Miami Trace boards retain control of the territory.

Under the law, the qualified voters living in the territory — a band completely surrounding the city, varying from a few rods to more than a mile in width — could protest the agreement within 30 days of the filing of a map of the territory.

The county school board approved the transfer Jan. 31. On Feb. 9, the Washington C. H. school board accepted the territory; on Feb. 16, the map was filed. That made Saturday the deadline.

Jan. 31 was the deadline for transfer of territory from one district to another by board action; transfer from now until January of 1958 can be made on through petition. Under the law, transfer by board action may be made only in January of even years — 1956 — 1958 — 1960 etc.

SIGNATURES ON the petition were to have been those of qualified voters of the territory who cast ballots in the last election. Preliminary counts by Herbert Perrill of the Miami Trace board and Joe Campbell indicated that of the 110 signatures, 107 or 96.8 percent — were valid. The number required for a majority, they found, was 97 of the 191 eligible to sign.

The other three signers, Perrill said, were people who had moved out of the district, who had not voted or who were otherwise ineligible to sign the petition.

Perrill and Campbell checked the petitions Saturday morning at the request of Supt. Hilty.

"I asked them to help because they worked for more than a week on a previous set of petitions and were familiar with the situation," Supt. Hilty explained.

The previous petitions, circulated under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Phoad, sought to transfer a larger belt of territory from the Miami Trace district into the city district. The county board has declared they were insufficient to effect a transfer.

After Perrill's and Campbell's check of the remonstrance petitions on Saturday, Supt. W. A. Smith of the city schools and Elmer Reed of the city school board also checked the petitions on Monday.

RESULTS of both checks tallied: of the 110 signatures, 107 seemed valid. An effective majority would have been 97.

Said Supt. Smith, "A few technicalities might reduce the number of signers, but not below a majority."

Neither Supt. Smith nor Robert Terhune, president of the city school board, had any comment to make on the petitions. Both pointed out that a regular meeting of the city school board was scheduled for 7 p. m. tonight (Monday).

"The entire program of education in the city will be reviewed tonight," Terhune said Monday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Fred Allen, the veteran humorist with the baggy eyes and sharp wit.

The 61-year-old radio and television comedian died of a heart ailment as he strolled a Manhattan street late Saturday night.

A solemn requiem mass will be sung for Allen in the actor's chapel of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church in the theater district.

Allen was an entertainer in radio, television and motion pictures for a quarter of a century. He was a regular panelist on the CBS television show "What's My Line?" Last night the show went on without him. His widow Portland Hoffa said he would have wanted it that way.

Allen was born John Florence Sullivan in Cambridge, Mass., on May 31, 1894. He changed his name early in his career at the suggestion of his agent.

His first venture on the stage was as a juggler.

One day a stage manager walked out on the stage and asked him how he had learned his act. In his nasal voice the young Allen quipped:

"I took a correspondence course in baggage smashing."

The crack brought down the house and launched his career as a comedian.

Bromfield's literary career, which started with the publication of "The Green Bay Tree," reached its zenith when he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1926 for his novel "Early Autumn." It was a story of a Massachusetts family.

Bromfield traveled widely and some of his more than two score novels reflect the scenes he visited. Many of them also were made into motion pictures.

He purchased five farms 12 miles from Mansfield where he was born Dec. 27, 1896. He christened the 1,000-acre "Malabar Farm" after a section of the India coast where he once lived.

There he set about conducting experiments in scientific farming and soil conservation. He wrote many articles on the subject.

Bromfield is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Hope Bromfield Stevens of Leesburg, Va.; Miss Anne Bromfield of Malabar Farm; and Mrs. Ellen Bromfield Carson of Malabar Farm de Brazil, near Itaituba, Brazil.

Mrs. Bromfield died in 1952

Settlement of the walkout, now in its 155th day, would end the longest major strike in the last

20 years. About 55,000 employes of the Westinghouse Electric

Corp. are involved. 45,000 of them members of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE).

The union's full negotiating committee was called into a day meeting, and its Westinghouse conference board was to meet tonight.

The board includes representatives of all 30 Westinghouse IUE locals

Tentative agreement was reportedly reached by union president

James B. Carey and Robert D.

Blasier, vice president and chief negotiator for Westinghouse, at an all-night meeting which lasted until 7 a. m. yesterday.

The report was not confirmed and no details of any settlement plan were announced.

IN PITTSBURGH, however, the Post-Gazette said it had learned that 36 workers discharged for alleged strike violence "would be considered under an indefinite suspension rather than discharged."

It called that "a concession from the company."

The company previously had accepted a package settlement proposed by federal mediators which included re-employment of 57 discharged workers with neutral arbitration of the cases of the remaining 36. The union sought to deal with the 36 in negotiations.

Joseph F. Finnegan, federal mediation director, declined to comment on developments.

The fate of the 36 discharged workers had provided the major stumbling block during the last week. There was substantial agreement on most other issues, on the basis of the mediators' package proposal.

The principal provision was for a five-year contract providing anual pay raises of 5 to 17 cents an hour and pension-insurance improvements. Workers averaged

$2.10 an hour before the strike.

So far as the Fayette County

Lions were concerned there were three highlights at the convenof the Jeffersonville club for hav-award to the Washington C. H.

ance in Zone 2-B and to Tom

Mark for having the next - best secretary's records in Zone 2-B.

at the convention from the 52 clubs.

Arthur Maddux Dies in Hospital

Funeral Service
Wednesday At 2 P. M.

Arthur Maddux, 59, who has been a part of the Washington C. H. business scene for more than a quarter of a century, died in the Cleveland Clinic at 12:20 P. M. Sunday following surgery.

He collapsed at his home on South North Street Tuesday evening and he was taken to Memorial Hospital here. The next day he was taken to the Cleveland Clinic, where he had received a general physical examination only a short time ago, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday he underwent emergency surgery from which he never recovered. He had been in failing health for the last three months.

Although he was born in Oeta, in the northwestern part of Fayette County, he had lived virtually his entire life in Washington C. H. He went to the Sunnyside Elementary School and Washington C. H. High School.

Even before he was out of school, he started working in restaurants — and that came to be the field of endeavor in which he developed his business career. He had his own restaurant for more than 25 years.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Elks Lodge. He was especially active in the affairs of the Legion and Elks Lodge.

He is survived by his widow and three brothers, Jess, Thomas and Harold in his immediate family and a number of more distant relatives in this community.

Funeral services are to be held at the Gerstner Funeral Home at 2 P. M. Wednesday. Interment is to be in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 P. M. tonight.

would have to come from the board as a whole," he said.

THE PETITION circulators were led by Osman King. Other circulators were George Aills, Joe Batson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyer.

"Public demand in this territory was the reason we started the petitions," King said Monday.

"They wanted to keep the county school system right the way it was," he added. "The future of the building program depends on the whole county's tax base."

Supt. Hilly said, despite rumors connecting his office with circulation of the petitions, "no one had ever asked me about it."

He stressed that if anyone had asked him about the legal means of protesting the territory, it would have been his duty to give the information. "But no one approached me directly," he said.

The petition circulators had consulted the Miami Trace office instead of his, Supt. Hilly said. "They gave them the law, as they are required to," he said.

"Where the county board transfers territory," Supt. Hilly concluded, "it is a proposal subject to the will of the people."

Red Writer Chides British 'Security'

LONDON (AP)—Britann opened her top atomic energy research plant to former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov today. But she made American correspondents and other newsmen wait outside.

"You will be allowed to see Di-do, the heavy water pile, but you can see nothing else," a British official told newsmen at the Harwell plant. "We are sorry, but security is security."

Kim Belsaev, correspondent for the Soviet news agency Tass, laughed in the official's face.

"You amaze me," he said. "You let all these Russian scientists in. Do you think they understand less about atomic secrets than American correspondents?"

Boys, Leaders In Scout Show

Three Fayette Units In Weekend Events

Three Scout units and adult leaders from Fayette County spent the weekend in Columbus, taking part in the annual Scout-O-Rama at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Cub Pack 229 of the Cherry Hill School had one of over 200 booths at the exhibition of Scout skills and experiences. Members of Cub Pack 303 of Millersville and Troop 316 of Washington C. H., under Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship, also took part in the day and one-half exhibition. The Millersville and Jaycee groups were in the Arena show, according to Marvin Thornburg, district commissioner.

Pack 229 put on a demonstration of kite-making, running the demonstration Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon.

Pack 303 performed a jousting contest in the roughly five minutes time allotted. The boys stood on low, unsteady platforms and tried to tip each other off with padded poles.

Demonstrating proper and fast methods of lashing a pack on a back, Troop 316 held a pack relay race during the arena show.

One other unit from here, Troop 32 of Washington C. H., was scheduled to perform in the arena but boys were unable to attend because of snowy roads.

Leaders from here included Bob Terhune, president of the area Council. Terhune doubled as master of ceremonies for some of the arena activities, besides taking part in other events.

Adults attending from here were mainly officials leaders or relatives of the boys, Thornburg said. They included Mr. and Mrs. Thornburg; Charles Sheridan, cubmaster of Pack 229 and his wife; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Maddox; Bill Williams, Scoutmaster of Troop 316; Charles Hiser, Cubmaster of Pack 303, Roberts Woods, Cubmaster of Sunnyside Pack 13; Milbourne Flee, neighborhood commissioner; former Cubmaster Tom Dickerson and Mrs. Dickerson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lutz and family.

39 Freight Cars Plunge Off Track

TURRELL, Ark. (AP)—Thirty nine cars in the middle of a long freight train leaped the track, plunged down an embankment and some caught fire in a spectacular wreck near this small northeast Arkansas town yesterday.

Fayette County were involved. Thirty additional days have now elapsed and there is no indication of a start toward the solution.

"Had there been a determination made by the Tax Commissioner from which an appeal had been made to the Board of Tax Appeals and this hypothetical situation decided adversely to the contentions of the taxpayer, the then pending litigation before the Supreme Court of Ohio would, I agree, make it improper to refer the matter to the Attorney General for an opinion.

"I am being asked such question as — 'Who is sitting on their hands?' or 'Who is dragging his boot?'"

"Now the interests of many Fayette County people and later probably others throughout the State of Ohio, justify prompt attention so that, as you have previously stated, 'every doubt should be resolved in favor of the taxpayer.'"

IN REPLY to Fabb's letter, White wrote that the hearing of the Fayette County case had been set for Tuesday. His letter to Fabb follows:

"Consideration has been given to your letter of March 12, concerning a pending application for review and redetermination before the Ohio Tax Commissioner involving personal property taxes assessed against an owner of agricultural products in Fayette County that are under loan from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

"The Tax Commissioner had advised me that a case involving the above personal property taxes has been set for hearing by the Tax Commissioner on March 20, 1956. This taxpayer has filed an application for review and redetermination of his assessment in accordance with the provisions of Section 5711.31 Revised Code. You may be assured that the Tax Commissioner will promptly render his determination in this pending case in order that there will be no unnecessary delay if the taxpayer should desire to further appeal the Commissioner's final order to the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals.

"I have also been advised by the Tax Commissioner that the other assessments made against owners of agricultural products in your county have not been appealed by way of the taxpayers filing applications for review and redetermination and hence such taxes have become final and the taxes represented thereby are to be collected by your office in the manner provided by law.

"Your letter of March 12, together with my reply thereto have been sent to Mr. Stanley J. Bowers, Tax Commissioner, in order that he may be fully acquainted with your views in this matter."

Driver Blinded And Two Are Hurt

Two persons were injured on Route 22, three miles east of Washington C. H. Saturday afternoon when a driver lost control of his car after the windshield was covered with snow and slush from a snow plow.

The driver was Peter Anthony Gill, 21, Cincinnati; with him were his wife, Delores, 18 and their seven-month-old baby.

The Gill car was headed east and the snow plow headed west, and Gill said the plow hurled snow and slush over his windshield and he could not see. The car took the ditch and overturned.

Gill suffered an elbow and knee injury, and Mrs. Gill sustained a left upper arm injury and cuts on her forehead.

They were brought to Memorial Hospital in the Kirkpatrick ambulance.

Arthur Maddux Dies in Hospital

Funeral Service
Wednesday At 2 P. M.

Arthur Maddux, 58, who has been a part of the Washington C. H. business scene for more than a quarter of a century, died in the Cleveland Clinic at 12:20 P. M. Sunday following surgery.

He collapsed at his home on South North Street Tuesday evening and he was taken to Memorial Hospital here. The next day he was taken to the Cleveland Clinic, where he had received a general physical examination only a short time ago, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday he underwent emergency surgery from which he never recovered. He had been in failing health for the last three months.

Although he was born in Octa, in the northwestern part of Fayette County, he had lived virtually his entire life in Washington C. H. He went to the Sunnyside Elementary School and Washington C. H. High School.

Even before he was out of school, he started working in restaurants — and that came to be the field of endeavor in which he developed his business career. He had his own restaurant for more than 25 years.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Elks Lodge. He was especially active in the affairs of the Legion and Elks Lodge.

He is survived by his widow and three brothers, Jess, Thomas and Harold in his immediate family and a number of more distant relatives in this community.

Funeral services are to be held at the Gerstner Funeral Home at 2 P. M. Wednesday. Interment is to be in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 P. M. tonight.

would have to come from the board as a whole," he said.

THE PETITION circulators were led by Osman King. Other circulators were George Aills, Joe Batson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyer.

"Public demand in this territory was the reason we started the petitions," King said Monday.

Supt. Hilty said, despite rumors connecting his office with circulation of the petitions, "no one had ever asked me about it."

He stressed that if anyone had asked him about the legal means of protesting the territory, it would have been his duty to give the information. "But no one approached me directly," he said.

The petition circulators had consulted the Miami Trace office instead of his, Supt. Hilty said. "They gave them the law, as they are required to," he said.

"Where the county board transfers territory," Supt. Hilty concluded, "it is a proposal subject to the will of the people."

Red Writer Chides British 'Security'

LONDON (AP)—Britain opened her top atomic energy research plant to former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov today. But she made American correspondents and other newsmen wait outside.

"You will be allowed to see Dido, the heavy water pile, but you can see nothing else," a British official told newsmen at the Harwell plant. "We are sorry, but security rules are security rules."

Kim Beiliev, correspondent for Soviet news agency Tass, laughed in the official's face.

Boys, Leaders In Scout Show

Three Fayette Units In Weekend Events

Three Scout units and adult leaders from Fayette County spent the weekend in Columbus, taking part in the annual Scout-O-Rama at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Cub Pack 229 of the Cherry Hill School had one of over 200 booths at the exhibition of Scout skills and experiences. Members of Cub Pack 303 of Milledgeville and Troop 316 of Washington C. H., under Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship, also took part in the day and one-half exhibition. The Milledgeville and Jaycee groups were in the Arena show, according to Marvin Thornburg, district commissioner.

Pack 229 put on a demonstration of kite-making, running the demonstration Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon.

Pack 303 performed a jousting contest in the roughly five minutes time allotted. The boys stood on low, unsteady platforms and tried to tip each other off with padded poles.

Demonstrating proper and fast methods of lashing a pack on a back, Troop 316 held a pack relay race during the arena show.

One other unit from here, Troop 32 of Washington C. H., was scheduled to perform in the arena but boys were unable to attend because of snowy roads.

Leaders from here included Bob Terhune, president of the area Council. Terhune doubled as master of ceremonies for some of the arena activities, besides taking part in other events.

Adults attending from here were mainly officials leaders or relatives of the boys, Thornburg said. They included Mr. and Mrs. Thornburg; Charles Sheridan, cubmaster of Pack 229 and his wife; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Maddox; Bill Williams, Scoutmaster of Troop 316; Charles Hiser, Cubmaster of Pack 303, Roberts Woods, Cubmaster of Sunnyside Pack 13; Milbourne Flee, neighborhood commissioner; former Cubmaster Tom Dickerson and Mrs. Dickerson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lutz and family.

39 Freight Cars Plunge Off Track

TURRELL, Ark. (AP)—Thirty-nine cars in the middle of a long freight train leaped the track, plunged down an embankment and some caught fire in a spectacular wreck near this small northeast Arkansas town yesterday.

At least 18 boxcars were destroyed or considered almost a total loss and 13 others were damaged. Frisco Railway men gave no estimate of the damage, but they described it as "tremendous." There were no injuries.

The 93-car train was en route to Memphis, Tenn.

Fayette County were involved. Thirty additional days have now elapsed and there is no indication of a start toward the solution.

"Had there been a determination made by the Tax Commissioner from which an appeal had been made to the Board of Tax Appeals and this hypothetical situation decided adversely to the contentions of the taxpayer, the then pending litigation before the Supreme Court of Ohio would, I agree, make it improper to refer the matter to the Attorney General for an opinion.

"I am being asked such question as — 'Who is sitting on their hands?', or 'Who is dragging his boot?'"

"Now the interests of many Fayette County people and later probably others throughout the State of Ohio, justify prompt attention so that, as you have previously stated, 'every doubt should be resolved in favor of the taxpayer.'"

IN REPLY to Fabb's letter, White wrote that the hearing of the Fayette County case had been set for Tuesday. His letter to Fabb follows:

"Consideration has been given to your letter of March 12, concerning a pending application for review and redetermination before the Ohio Tax Commissioner involving personal property taxes assessed against an owner of agricultural products in Fayette County that are under loan from the Commercial Credit Corporation.

"The Tax Commissioner had advised me that a case involving the above personal property taxes has been set for hearing by the Tax Commissioner on March 20, 1956. This taxpayer has filed an application for review and redetermination of his assessment in accordance with the provisions of Section 5711.31 Revised Code. You may be assured that the Tax Commissioner will promptly render his determination in this pending case in order that there will be no unnecessary delay if the taxpayer should desire to further appeal the Commissioner's final order to the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals.

"I have also been advised by the Tax Commissioner that the other assessments made against owners of agricultural products in your county have not been appealed by way of the taxpayers filing applications for review and redetermination and hence such taxes have become final and the taxes represented thereby are to be collected by your office in the manner provided by law.

"Your letter of March 12, together with my reply thereto have been sent to Mr. Stanley J. Bowers, Tax Commissioner, in order that he may be fully acquainted with your views in this matter."

Driver Blinded And Two Are Hurt

Two persons were injured on Route 22, three miles east of Washington C. H. Saturday afternoon when a driver lost control of his car after the windshield was covered with snow and slush from a snow plow.

The driver was Peter Anthony Gill, 21, Cincinnati; with him were his wife, Delores, 18 and their seven-month-old baby.

The Gill car was headed east and the snow plow headed west, and Gill said the plow hurled snow and slush over his windshield and he could not see. The car took the ditch and overturned.

Gill suffered an elbow and knee injury, and Mrs. Gill sustained a left upper arm injury and cuts on her forehead.

They were brought to Memorial Hospital in the Kirkpatrick ambulance.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a boy 19, a senior in high school, in love with a girl 15. I realize marriage is out of the question for at least two years.

Lois studies dancing and works with an opera company during the summer, besides being president of her class. I don't know why I like her and have even looked for things wrong with her, but as long as I am near her I am as happy as can be. This never happened to me before, even though I had one other girl whom I liked very much.

I don't dance very well and always said I would never learn; but I am taking lessons since I met Lois; and I have become more active in school and my marks have improved. Lois likes a boy in her class, who doesn't seem to care as much for her. She doesn't want to go steady, just wants him to like her more than the rest.

If this is puppy love, then I don't think I would ever get married—because this hurts too much as it is. Can you tell me why I feel this way? And why it hurts so?

J. B.
DEAR J. B.: It would take a book to straighten you out, in respect to this stage of suffering that has gripped you. And I think I know just the book to do it: namely, Evelyn Millis Duvall's "Facts of Life and Love—For Teenagers." The book is copyrighted by the National Board of the YMCA and published by the Association Press at 291 Broadway, New York City 7. It really tells the whole story.

The author writes understandingly of jealous love, passionate love, hostile love, anguished love (your present brand), tender love, loyal friendly love, brotherly love and love of life. Then, in Chapter 11 comes the question: "Is it Love or Infatuation?" and on page 252 is this reassurance:

"One of the most unfortunate illusions is that 'Love comes only once in a lifetime.' Nothing is more false. Any person capable of loving another has the capacity of loving not once but many times; not one individual but many persons. For any normal man or woman there are many possible partners with whom a fine marriage could be worked out. Second marriages have been shown to work out remarkably well indicating that at least two loves are possible . . ."

In a sense you are having growing pains. And your present heartache is probably the worst you'll ever know, because first love has caught you unawares and unprepared—not knowing what to expect nor how to manage your emotions. So don't be afraid of mature love, the capacity for which can be one of the greatest blessings in life.

Negotiation Seen Solution To Arab Fuss

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. John L. Sparkman says he believes Arab-Israel problems in the middle east can be eased by "discussion, planning and negotiation" by interested parties.

"There is no reason why Jews and Arabs cannot cooperate throughout the whole Middle East area," he said. "Jointly they can conquer the soil and the common enemies of life and prosperity which confront them."

Sparkman, Alabama Democrat, addressed a meeting here Sunday of the United Jewish Appeal.

He said he believes the U.S. should take the initiative in seeking to ease Middle East tensions and that a clear-cut American policy on Arab-Israel differences is "of importance and immediacy."

Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1952, told a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter after his address that he thinks U.S. farm problems will likely be the "most acute" issue in the coming presidential campaign.

He said this issue could well be a determining factor in the coming election.

The senator said he expects Adlai Stevenson, his running mate in 1952, to again be nominated as the Democrats' presidential choice. "It is too early to talk about the (Democratic) vice president," he said.

On the Republican's 1956 ticket, he said "I don't see how" they can run anybody for vice president except Richard Nixon.

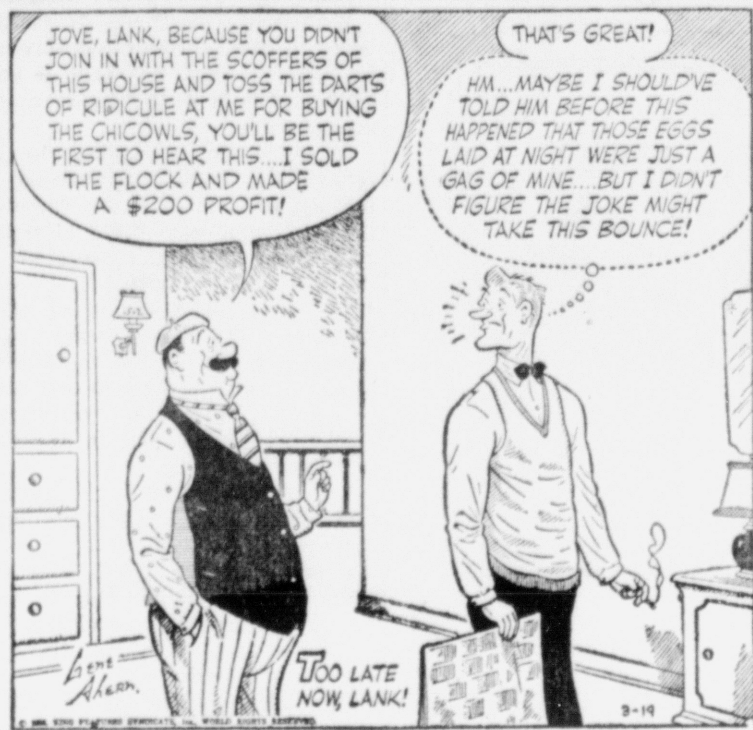

"If they do (run anybody else) people will think he is being dumped—either because they made a mistake in nominating him in 1952 or because they think President Eisenhower won't live and Nixon couldn't fill his shoes," he said.

Bobo Olson, incidentally, is a prize fighter.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

When the room mothers visited the second grade at Central School last week to give the children a St. Patrick's Day party, they had a surprise waiting for them. With the help of Mrs. Pensyl, Mrs. Everhart had taught the children an Irish jig. The children's enthusiasm in dancing for the mothers and their interest in the story of St. Patrick, motivated a brief study of Ireland.

Invitations were sent to the fourth and fifth grades at Central by the second grade last week, asking them to see another story dramatization.

The story dramatized was another in the make-believe unit of the Scott-Foreman reader, "The Circus Parade." Children raking part were:

Baby elephant, Marilyn Moats; drum, Jackie Spangler; mouse, Donnie Beuler; squirrel, Lyle Sowders; horse, Gary Knisley; bear, Michael Campbell; other elephants, Bobbie Massie, Victoria Tremlett, Robert Matson, Chuck Howell, Chuck Henderson, Randy Miller, Larry Wood, Gale McRobie, Michael Long.

Judge Gives Up Driving License

NEW YORK (AP)—Judge Carson DeWitt Baker has paid a $50 fine and surrendered his driver's license after being convicted of speeding.

The verdict in Manhattan traffic court brought to $185 the fines Baker has paid on 18 long-neglected traffic tickets. He contested only the speeding summons.

Baker has taken leave of absence from his $15,000 a year municipal court post while the appellate division examines his fitness to continue on the bench.

Negro's Role In Future Told At Conference

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Dean Rush, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, said here last night that the role the Negro will play in our society will have a vital influence on the choice millions of persons will make in organizing their independence.

He told 1,000 persons attending the United Negro College Fund convocation that the people of this country are being judged by their performance in democracy. Their actions will have a direct effect in those parts of the world where governments and institutions are now being formed, he added.

Dr. Rusk cited contributions that college-trained American Negroes have made "at the most sensitive points in our foreign relations." He said support for Negro colleges could not be diminished because the "segregation issue is still unsolved."

"Quite apart from the ultimate solution (of segregation) we shall in any event need the full capacity of all our present colleges and universities—and more," he said.

The convocation ends today with the official opening of a drive for two million dollars for 32 Negro colleges throughout the country. The goal in Cleveland is $48,000.

Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta who also spoke last night, forecast survival and eventual desegregation of negro institutions of higher learning.

He said Negro and white colleges would be desegregated and "will enter a larger field of usefulness."

"They will no longer be hampered and circumscribed by law and custom which now restrict the mind and cramp the soul," Dr. Mays said. "But they will be free to become the kind of institutions which they deserve to become."

Did Art Institute Bungle, Hang 'Ping' Pong-Side Up?

CHICAGO (AP)—The prize-winning painting in the Art Institute's annual Chicago exhibition may be hanging upside down. But if it is topsy-turvy, institute officials say they won't be red-faced.

A couple of students examining Anna P. Baker's painting, "High Frequency Ping," noted that the artist's name was written upside down in the right-hand corner.

The painting is an intricate composition of countless triangular and diamond shapes, and the signature is in the same color as the dominant color of the painting.

Did the artist indulge in a bit of whimsy and sign her name in its least conspicuous spot?

Miss Baker, who lives in Cleveland, wasn't immediately available for comment. A spokesman for the institute said:

"1. Artists frequently will turn their pictures upside down to get a better look at it.
"2. Miss Baker told us she had worked on it for nearly a year. I think she might have been a little blind to it by so much work.
"3. This painting, because of its composition, can be hung in any way. There is no exact image.
"4. Finally, contestants were told to label their paintings in the upper left hand corner of the back of the painting. This then indicates which is the top, and guides us in hanging the picture properly. That is the way Miss Baker's painting is hung."

The judges gave the painting the show's top prize—$1,500.

The kids swung quickly into action and lined their sleds across the road. When the department workers came to the barricade, they got out and started removing the sleds.

But then, the kids opened up with a barrage of snowballs. This got the workers mad, so they threw the sleds into the back of the truck and drove to police headquarters.

In order to get their sleds back, the kids have to report to the police youth bureau with their parents.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a boy 19, a senior in high school, in love with a girl 15. I realize marriage is out of the question for at least two years.

Lois studies dancing and works with an opera company during the summer, besides being president of her class. I don't know why I like her and have even looked for things wrong with her, but as long as I am near her I am as happy as can be. This never happened to me before, even though I had one other girl whom I liked very much.

I don't dance very well and always said I would never learn; but I am taking lessons since I met Lois; and I have become more active in school and my marks have improved. Lois likes a boy in her class, who doesn't seem to care as much for her. She doesn't want to go steady, just wants him to like her more than the rest.

If this is puppy love, then I don't think I want a taste of the real thing—because this hurts too much as it is. Can you tell me why I feel this way? And why it hurts so?

J. B.
DEAR J. B.: It would take a book to straighten you out, in respect to this seige of suffering that has gripped you. And I think I know just the book to do it: namely, Evelyn Millis Duvall's "Facts of Life and Love—For Teenagers." The book is copyrighted by the National Board of the YMCA and published by the Association Press at 291 Broadway, New York City 7. It really tells the whole story.

The author writes understandingly of jealous love, passionate love, hostile love, anguished love (your present brand), tender love, loyal friendly love, brotherly love and love of life. Then, in Chapter 11 comes the question: "Is it Love or Infatuation?" and on page 262 is this reassurance:

"One of the most unfortunate illusions is that 'Love comes only once in a lifetime.' Nothing is more false. Any person capable of loving another has the capacity of loving not once but many times; not one individual but many persons. For any normal man or woman there are many possible partners with whom a fine marriage could be worked out. Second marriages have been shown to work out remarkably well indicating that at least two loves are possible . . ."

In a sense you are having growing pains. And your present heartache is probably the worst you'll ever know, because first love has caught you unawares and unprepared—not knowing what to expect nor how to manage your emotions. So don't be afraid of mature love, the capacity for which can be one of the greatest blessings in life.

Negotiation Seen Solution To Arab Fuss

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. John L. Sparkman says he believes Arab-Israel problems in the middle east can be eased by "discussion, planning and negotiation" by interested parties.

"There is no reason why Jews and Arabs cannot cooperate throughout the whole Middle East area," he said. "Jointly they can conquer the soil and the common enemies of life and prosperity which confront them."

Sparkman, Alabama Democrat, addressed a meeting here Sunday of the United Jewish Appeal.

He said he believes the U.S. should take the initiative in seeking to ease Middle East tensions, and that a clear-cut American policy on Arab-Israel differences is "of importance and immediacy."

Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1952, told a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter after his address that he thinks U.S. farm problems will likely be the "most acute" issue in the coming presidential campaign.

He said this issue could well be a determining factor in the coming election.

The senator said he expects Adlai Stevenson, his running mate in 1952, to again be nominated as the Democrats' presidential choice. "It is too early to talk about the (Democratic) vice president," he said.

On the Republican's 1956 ticket, he said "I don't see how" they can run anybody for vice president except Richard Nixon.

"If they do (run anybody else) people will think he is being dumped — either because they made a mistake in nominating him in 1952 or because they think President Eisenhower won't live and Nixon couldn't fill his shoes," he said.

When the room mothers visited the second grade at Central School last week to give the children a St. Patrick's Day party, they had a surprise waiting for them. With the help of Mrs. Pensyl, Mrs. Evhart had taught the children an Irish jig. The children's enthusiasm in dancing for the mothers and their interest in the story of St. Patrick, motivated a brief study of Ireland.

Invitations were sent to the fourth and fifth grades at Central by the second grade last week, asking them to see another story dramatization.

The story dramatized was another in the make-believe unit of the Scott-Foresman reader, "The Circus Parade." Children taking part were:

Wasted Water And Fight Against Pollution

It is a question as to how many people really give much serious thought to the waste of water until they find themselves brought up short with stringent limitations as to how much, if any, they can have.

In our own community, and in fact all over Ohio, realization of the need for protection of water supplies, as well as the necessity of fighting pollution of our streams and underground sources, has been getting more attention in the past few years.

When any observer stops to think, he or she will soon take note that water is a great factor in nearly everything that is produced. Just consider what the water needs of our own city and county have become.

Authoritative sources point out that in Ohio the equivalent of 1,100 gallons of water a day is consumed by heavy industry for each resident. It is said to take up to 30,000 gallons to make one ton of steel. Ohio farmers, too, need huge quantities; 1,300 gallons are required to produce a pound of beef, according to one reliable report.

In homes across the state individuals draw on an average of about 100 gallons a day for washing, cooking, and sanitary purposes. Water is the most precious resource in Ohio; nothing should be left undone to conserve it.

The industry member and president of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, observed in a recent speech:

"A century ago, some men were calling our growing cities a blight on the countryside, because they brought with them filth and disease and ugliness. We have fought to eliminate the filth. We have conquered most of the diseases. We have beautiful homes, buildings, and streets. Until recently, however, there was a large area of neglect."

"We poured the wastes of our cities into streams. We dumped into the streams all of the sanitary wastes from our sewers and all of the process wastes from our industries. We took the attitude: 'Let the man downstream worry. Let him clean the water if he wants to use it.'"

Reports indicate that attitude has changed. It changed largely because many Ohio streams and rivers became so contaminated that it was impossible to sustain life or manufacture with their waters. We learned that polluted water can be as bad as no water at all.

In 1951 the Ohio General Assembly took action. It adopted stringent pollution control laws and authorized interstate compacts with Ohio's neighbors for cleaning tributaries of the Ohio River. Since then towns and cities throughout the river area have invested millions of dollars in new sanitation plants. Moreover, 247 Ohio industries have either completed or are in the process of building waste treatment facilities, while another 176 companies have taken steps to curb the disposal of raw waste. And the other day the city of Pittsburgh negotiated a $100,000,000 loan for a sewage treatment project that will serve that city and 66 surrounding communities.

This is heartening. The prosperity and health of Ohioans depend on the water flowing through the streams and river that cross the state. Pollution must be curbed at all costs.

Butcher Bucks Bummarees

LONDON (AP)—A beefy butcher is bucking the bummarees of London's big wholesale meat market and his fight has stirred up a nationwide stew.

Six footer David Durrant, a 41-year-old butcher and owner of two shops, has challenged Britain's largest union, the Transport and General Workers (TGWU).

And the bummarees? That's a quaint old English nickname for the 600 licensed porters, all TGWU members, at Smithfield market who lug the heavy sides of beef from the wholesalers' counters to the retailers trucks.

Durrant says he is fighting for the right to carry the meat himself and pass the saving in porters' fees to his customers. At a time of rising food prices, that's popular with the housewives. But the bummarees insist they alone are entitled to do the toting and they threaten a strike should the butcher ultimately win.

"No one will take any meat away from the market except a licensed porter," declares their spokesman, John Spencer Tribe, styled the "King of Smithfield."

Durrant opened his fight by winning a court test case. But when he tried to exercise his new-won legal right to haul his own meat wholesalers, fearing a strike, refused to sell him supplies. So he was forced to use the porters.

The butcher claims he pays on the average 3 to 6 pence (£14 to $16.80) weekly to porters to carry his meat and that it adds a penny a pound to his shop price of meat.

Retail meat traders have backed Durrant, appealing to the Lord Mayor of the City of London to intervene. The city owns the market, the wholesalers are its tenants and it licenses the bummarees.

The 11,000-strong national union of small shopkeepers also pledged Durrant its support. President Tom Lynch said "the first duty of wholesalers is to their retail customers and not to powerful trade unions."

The fight goes on.

At Least He Attracted Attention

By George Sokolsky

There was something of a controversy in Syracuse, New York, over an address delivered by Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University before the local manufacturers association. The Chancellor ought to be honored that his speech attracted attention and created a fuss because most such speeches pass unnoticed and do not excite as much interest these days as the private measurements of a female saloon singer.

What stirred the excitement were some statements on communism which included these sentences:

"Without minimizing the danger of the communist conspiracy, I think it is safe to say the battle for men's minds in America will not be won by the communist party. The victory here is clear cut and final."

The Chancellor talked too much and far beyond his knowledge, which sometimes happens to learned men who often believe that having specialized in something, they possess knowledge of everything. This also is a fault of columnists, editorial writers, female lecturers and most politicians. The Chinese used to believe that if a man could write a good essay on the classics, he could do anything, even to building a bridge, and the amazing fact is that some could. So we cannot criticize the Chancellor for being like the rest of us.

However, I might suggest to the Chancellor that he might make a study of textbooks currently used in his and other universities to see how effectively the capitalist concept of life is being undermined and as a substitute for it, socialism in various forms is offered to our young people. I find such textbooks not only in economics and politics but in history, sociology, psychology and in that hodge-podge of subjects called contemporary civilization which is a very short cut to culture. It is more effective to influence the young mind through textbooks than by direct political propaganda, particularly in this country where acaademic freedom is as sacred as an amendment to the Constitution and includes the privilege not only of being untruthful but of marking down students who indicate that they have free minds by differing from the oyster dicta of their instructors some of whom apparently get their knowledge from Soviet encyclopedias. This is not a generalization but a suggestion to the Chancellor that he do a research job on the subject.

The real issue is, however, not what Chancellor Tolley said but what he did not say. For if the "victory here is clear cut and final," what is it a victory for? The answer to that I do not see in this speech, although it may be that what I have before me is incomplete. Certainly the opposite of Marxism is not capitalism, and if the victory which is "clear cut and final" is the capitalism, Chancellor Tolley must be mistaken because this country is moving rapidly away from individualistic capitalism toward a very peculiar mixed system in which the government exercises a control over individual earnings not only through the punitive graduated income tax, but by various social controls which leave little to individual judgment save risk.

Furthermore, the anti-trust laws, as interpreted by the Eisenhower administration, place a control upon private enterprise which leaves few advantages to competence, ability, ingenuity and success. Whereas Keynesian economics no longer dominates our treasury, no other logical system does and therefore only those with inherited wealth can really benefit by their enterprise sufficiently to establish a competence for their progeny and even such persons now find it more advantageous to establish socialized foundations rather than to amass and use the results of their labors.

So, we reach the point where we must again ask the learned Chancellor to tell us what is it that has won the victory "clear cut and final" over Marxism. I would suggest that the Chancellor read the current transcripts issued last week and this week and presumably next week by the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate on the scope of Soviet activity in the United States. This series of studies is one of the most interesting and for a scholar, scholarly documents of current American life. He will discover that while many believe that the communists in the United States have failed, the fact is that Marxism is continuing to be an important influence in our lives, although indirectly it is true. Some of us may still be fighting, but there has been no clear cut or final victory.

Eyes Reveal Secrets About Body Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Doctors are not soothsayers or fortune tellers. Yet frequently they can tell whether you have some unsuspected illness simply by looking into your eyes.

Your eyes often reveal secrets about your bodily health. They act as sort of a barometer by revealing deep-seated conditions.

Intricate Network

By using an ophthalmoscope, an eye specialist can examine the intricate network of the retina, the flattened end of the optic nerve which is spread across the back part of your eye.

The ophthalmoscope is an instrument, commonly used by vision specialists, which casts a narrow beam of bright light through the pupil to the back of your eye. The light is then reflected into the eye of the examiner, giving him a clear and detailed view of the retina.

Characteristic Marks

Many facts about you leave their characteristic marks on the retina. With the ophthalmoscope, a specialist can tell whether you have any number of physical ailments.

He may detect heart trouble, anemia, epilepsy, hardening of the arteries, pneumonia, diphtheria, influenza, and even measles or mumps.

And, of course, he'll be able to find eye diseases which might be present and any visual errors such as astigmatism, nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Emotional Disorders

Emotional disorders, too, may be uncovered. Many doctors say that such disorders have physical manifestations in the eye more frequently than in any other organ.

Thus, your eyes are closely correlated with your entire body. Even if you don't have visual trouble, regular eye examinations, especially if you are past middle age, may provide valuable guidance on the care of your general health.

White And Negro Churches To Merge

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Episcopal congregations, one Negro, the other white, have announced plans to merge the first Sunday after Easter.

The Rev. Kenneth Curry, rector of the Negro St. Simon the Cyprian Episcopal Church, said Sunday, "The action was taken for the good of the church. We felt it would be more sensible for the two congregations to worship together at the same church."

The St. Simon church will be closed after the merger with the Church of the Holy Communion. Both churches are in suburban Maywood.

About a third of all passengers between Paris and London travel by air, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It is the irony of Stalin's fate that through his very strength he made it possible for his heirs to denounce and disown him.

It would be misleading to interpret the present convulsion in the Russian spirit — the repudiation of Stalin — as a mark of weakness among his successors or in the Russian structure.

There is no evidence of such weakness. On the contrary, Russia ranks next to the United States in steel production and may be ahead in making warplanes. It's reported ahead in training scientists.

It has produced the atomic bomb. It has produced a hydrogen explosion.

It has under its thumb over 400 million people, half in Russia, half in the European satellites. It reached this towering position under Stalin's leadership.

Its achievements can be attributed, to be sure, to the energy and genius of the Russian people. But when Stalin took over in 1924 it was not only a backward country but a highly illiterate one. Under his guidance the foundations for the present successes were laid.

Now the new Kremlin men — particularly Communist party boss Khrushchev — are reported to be revealing their old boss as a bloody tyrant and murderer. There's no doubt he was that.

That his heirs feel free to say so seems to speak well for their self-confidence. Stalin was the symbol of absolute power. If his successors were unsure of themselves they would need to wrap themselves in that symbol, not destroy it.

If he was so bad, why didn't the new strong men say so while he was alive and destroy him? They reportedly say they were afraid of him. They know their present repudiation of him could cause upheaval in the Communist party at home and abroad. Apparently they feel so sure of their own strength that they do not fear defection or insurrection.

They could let his memory disappear from public consciousness by not mentioning him any more. That would have been the easy way. Why then are they doing it this way?

Perhaps these are the reasons:
1. The drastic emphasis on collective, instead of individual, leadership may be the preliminary to some sharp shift in the Communist policy, if not in doctrine.
2. To get greater cooperation from the Russian masses by giving them a larger sense of participation in the country's welfare than they could ever have had under Stalin, who made it clear that individuals were expendable ciphers.

3. To make Russian communism more attractive to other peoples in Asia and Europe by trying to create a sense of good will and confidence in the honesty of the new leadership than Stalin was able to inspire.

Wasted Water And Fight Against Pollution

It is a question as to how many people really give much serious thought to the waste of water until they find themselves brought up short with stringent limitations as to how much, if any, they can have.

In our own community, and in fact all over Ohio, realization of the need for protection of water supplies, as well as the necessity of fighting pollution of our streams and underground sources, has been getting more attention in the past few years.

When any observer stops to think, he or she will soon take note that water is a great factor in nearly everything that is produced. Just consider what the water needs of our own city and county have become.

Authoritative sources point out that in Ohio the equivalent of 1,100 gallons of water a day is consumed by heavy industry for each resident. It is said to take up to 30,000 gallons to make one ton of steel. Ohio farmers, too, need huge quantities; 1,300 gallons are required to produce a pound of beef, according to one reliable report.

In homes across the state individuals draw on an average of about 100 gallons a day for washing, cooking, and sanitary purposes. Water is the most precious resource in Ohio; nothing should be left undone to conserve it.

The industry member and president of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, observed in a recent speech:

"A century ago, some men were calling out growing cities a blight on the countryside, because they brought with them filth and disease and ugliness. We have fought to eliminate the filth. We have conquered most of the diseases. We have beautiful homes, buildings, and streets. Until recently, however, there was a large area of neglect.

"We poured the wastes of our cities into streams. We dumped into the streams all of the sanitary wastes from our sewers and all of the process wastes from our industries. We took the attitude: 'Let the man downstream worry. Let him clean the water if he wants to use it.'"

Reports indicate that attitude has changed. It changed largely because many Ohio streams and rivers became so contaminated that it was impossible to sustain life or manufacture with their waters. We learned that polluted water can be as bad as no water at all.

In 1951 the Ohio General Assembly took action. It adopted stringent pollution control laws and authorized interstate compacts with Ohio's neighbors for cleaning tributaries of the Ohio River. Since then towns and cities throughout the river area have invested millions of dollars in new sanitation plants. Moreover, 247 Ohio industries have either completed or are in the process of building waste treatment facilities. While another 176 companies have taken steps to curb the disposal of raw waste. And the other day the city of Pittsburgh negotiated a $100,000,000 loan for a sewage treatment project that will serve that city and 66 surrounding communities.

This is heartening. The prosperity and health of Ohioans depend on the water flowing through the streams and river that cross the state. Pollution must be curbed at all costs.

Butcher Bucks Bummarees

LONDON (AP)—A beefy butcher is bucking the bummarees of London's big wholesale meat market and his fight has stirred up a nationwide stew.

Six footer David Durrant, a 41-year-old butcher and owner of two shops, has challenged Britain's largest union, the Transport and General Workers (TGWU).

And the bummarees? That's a quaint old English nickname for the 600 licensed porters, all TGWU members, at Smithfield market who lug the heavy sides of beef from the wholesalers' counters to the retailers' trucks.

Durrant says he is fighting for the right to carry the meat himself and pass the saving in porters' fees to his customers. At a time of rising food prices, that's popular with the housewives. But the bummarees insist they alone are entitled to do the toting and they threaten a strike should the butcher ultimately win.

"No one will take any meat away from the market except a licensed porter," declares their spokesman, John Spencer Tribe, styled the "King of Smithfield." Durrant opened his fight by winning a court test case. But when he tried to exercise his new-law legal right to haul his own meat wholesalers, fearing a strike, refused to sell him supplies. So he was forced to use the porters.

The butcher claims he pays on the average 5 to 6 pounds ($14 to $16.80) weekly to porters to carry his meat and that it adds a penny a pound to his shop price of meat.

Retail meat traders have backed Durrant, appealing to the Lord Mayor of the City of London to intervene. The city owns the market, the wholesalers are its tenants and it licenses the bummarees.

The 11,000-strong national union of small shopkeepers also pledged Durrant its support. President Tom Lynch said "the first duty of wholesalers is to their retail customers and not to powerful trade unions."

The fight goes on.

At Least He Attracted Attention

There was something of a controversy in Syracuse, New York, over an address delivered by Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University before the local manufacturers association. The Chancellor ought to be honored that his speech attracted attention and created a fuss because most such speeches pass unnoticed and do not excite as much interest these days as the private measurements of a female saloon singer.

What stirred the excitement were some statements on communism which included these sentences:

"... Without minimizing the danger of the communist conspiracy, I think it is safe to say the battle for men's minds in America will not be won by the communist party. The victory here is clear cut and final."

However, I must suggest to the Chancellor that he might make a study of textbooks currently used in his and other universities to see how effectively the capitalist concept of life is being undermined and as a substitute for it, socialism in various forms is offered to our young people. I find such textbooks not only in economics and politics but in history, sociology, psychology and in that hodge-podge of subjects called contemporary civilization which is a very short cut to culture. It is more effective to influence the young mind through textbooks than by direct political propaganda, particularly in this country where academie freedom is as sacred as an amendment to the Constitution and includes the privilege not only of being untruthful but of marking down students who indicate that they have free minds by differing from the obiter dicta of their instructors some of whom apparently get their knowledge from Soviet encyclopedias. This is not a generalization but a suggestion to the Chancellor that he do a research job on the subject.

The real issue is, however, not what Chancellor Tolley said but what he did not say. For if the "victory here is clear cut and final," what is it a victory for? The answer to that I do not see in this speech, although it may be that what I have before me is incomplete. Certainly the opposite of Marxism is not capitalism, and if the victory which is "clear cut and final" is the capitalism, Chancellor Tolley must be mistaken because this country is moving rapidly away from individualistic capitalism toward a very peculiar mixed system in which the government exercises a control over individual earnings not only through the punitive graduated income tax, but by various social controls which leave little to individual judgment save risk.

Furthermore, the anti-trust laws, as interpreted by the Eisenhower administration, place a control upon private enterprise which leaves few advantages to competence, ability, ingenuity and success. Whereas Keynesian economics no longer dominates our treasury, no other logical system does and therefore only those with inherited wealth can really benefit by their enterprise sufficiently to establish a competence for their progeny and even such persons now find it more advantageous to establish socialized foundations rather than to amass and use the results of their labors.

So, we reach the point where we must again ask the learned Chancellor to tell us what is it that has won the victory "clear cut and final" over Marxism. I would suggest that the Chancellor read the current transcripts issued last week and this week and presumably next week by the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate on the scope of Soviet activity in the United States. This series of studies is one of the most interesting and for a scholar, scholarly documents of current American life. He will discover that while many believe that the communists in the United States have failed, the fact is that Marxism is continuing to be an important influence in our lives, although indirectly it is true. Some of us may still be fighting, but there has been no clear cut or final victory.

Diet and Health Eyes Reveal Secrets About Body Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Doctors are not soothsayers or fortune tellers. Yet frequently they can tell whether you have some unsuspected illness simply by looking into your eyes.

Your eyes often reveal secrets about your bodily health. They act as sort of a barometer by revealing deep-seated conditions.

Intricate Network

By using an ophthalmoscope, an eye specialist can examine the intricate network of the retina, the flattened end of the optic nerve which is spread across the back part of your eye.

The ophthalmoscope is an instrument, commonly used by vision specialists, which casts a narrow beam of bright light through the pupil to the back of your eye. The light is then reflected into the eye of the examiner, giving him a clear and detailed view of the retina.

Characteristic Marks

Many facts about you leave their characteristic marks on the retina. With the ophthalmoscope, a specialist can tell whether you have any number of physical ailments.

He may detect heart trouble, anemia, epilepsy, hardening of the arteries, pneumonia, diphtheria, influenza, and even measles or mumps.

And, of course, he'll be able to find eye diseases which might be present and any visual errors such as astigmatism, nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Emotional Disorders

Emotional disorders, too, may be uncovered. Many doctors say that such disorders have physical manifestations in the eye more frequently than in any other organ.

Thus, your eyes are closely correlated with your entire body. Even if you don't have visual trouble, regular eye examinations, especially if you are past middle age, may provide valuable guidance on the care of your general health.

Lt. Gov. Brown Rattles Some Old Skeletons

Would-Be Governor Revives Talk Of O'Neill-Lausche 'Deal'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's personable lieutenant governor has taken on the role of political skeleton rattler to fire up his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

John W. Brown, former Medina mayor and state highway patrol man, carried out an advance promise to "open a few closet doors and expose some political skeletons" in television broadcasts.

He revived talk of a "deal" between his May 8 primary election opponent, Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, and Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who passed up a likely sixth term to run for U.S. Senator and presidential "favorite son".

O'Neill and Lausche declined comment. Both previously denied any "deal".

Brown termed "gratifying" the response to his broadcasts made in the face of what he said were warnings against political suicide.

The lieutenant governor reported that a number of listeners appeared at his Statehouse office to make $1 campaign contributions.

Brown said in a four-station telecast he would rather have a dollar each from 10,000 men than $10,000 from one man wanting to dictate policies of state.

"My skirts are clean from political intrigue . . . I have made no deals," the lieutenant governor declared. "Not one penny of my campaign money or support has come from the professional lobbyist or the king makers I wonder if my opponent will make that statement."

Brown identified the "king makers" only as a combine of professional lobbyists and vested business interests determined to control Ohio government regardless of party.

"Their influence," he said, "reaches out into all parts of the State of Ohio, into her banks, her big industrial empire, her newspapers and into certain political organizations. . . .

"The king makers are the same clique which has backed the present Democrat governor against every Republican who ever ran against him, including Tom Herbert."

Former Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, now a candidate for Ohio Supreme Court judge, beat Lausche in the 1946 election but lost to him in 1948.

Asserting they now were out to slash his political throat, Brown said O'Neill "was hand picked months ago by the king makers as their 'heir apparent' to his friendly Democrat (Lausche)."

Brown said O'Neill, now in his third term as attorney general, resisted pleas of GOP leaders to challenge Lausche in 1952 and 1954 during his first term as lieutenant governor that he wanted to be governor but didn't run until this year. Brown now is serving his second term as lieutenant governor.

Sounding what some termed a note of desperation, Brown said he now had two courses of action left — give up and run for cover or stand and fight.

The lieutenant governor vowed to stand and fight the O'Neill "steamroller."

"If we can enlist the support and enthusiasm of the average voter," he said, "my opponents can have all the gold and influence they can get—they can't beat a people's candidate."

With tongue in cheek, friends of O'Neill wondered if Brown didn't borrow a few pages from Lausche's book. They asserted the five-term governor was adept at setting up straw men to knock down during campaigns.

Japanese Film To Get 'Oscar'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A Japanese film will be the only honorary Oscar winner at this year's Academy Awards ceremony.

President George Seaton of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced today that the Academy's governors did not vote this year an Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award, usually given an outstanding producer or any other honorary awards except for a foreign language film.

The Oscar for the film "Samurai" will be presented in New York by Claudette Colbert at ceremonies Wednesday night, Seaton said.

Jersey GOP, Dems Prepare For Victories This Year

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Democrats seeking to take New Jersey out of President Eisenhower's column say they hope to dispel a feeling he is "above politics" by linking him directly to administration activities that have aroused criticism.

Republican leaders predict Eisenhower will win by a larger margin than his 339,000-vote lead in 1952. They contend efforts to destroy his popularity will get nowhere.

That is the gist of opinion picked up on a reporter's political pulse-taking tour from Jersey City and Newark, through Trenton, to Camden.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner, the state's 47-year-old chief executive, puts the Democratic case this way:

"We have a job to acquaint the public with the Eisenhower-Nixon record. Too often, the public have a way of disassociating what Eisenhower says and what his Cabinet or key people in the administration do."

On the other side, Republican State Chairman Samuel Bodine of Flemington says he has found the reaction of the average person to Eisenhower's second-term announcement is "excellent."

"They feel the country is safe in his hands," Bodine said. "They want him to continue on."

How about Eisenhower's health, since he suffered his heart attack?

"He made the decision to run," said Bodine. "He wouldn't have unless he felt up to it. We are willing to abide by that decision."

Raymond Bateman, executive director of the Republican State committee, said there has been a recent swing of public opinion in favor of Nixon.

A Democratic local office holder

said his party's task is to dispel a popular feeling that Eisenhower is a "dispenser of peace and prosperity . . . above politics."

"How are you going to beat him?" he inquired, asking that he not be named.

But this man saw solace in 1948, when Harry Truman upset predictions by beating out highly favored Thomas E. Dewey.

The Democrats' realization that they have an uphill fight to carry New Jersey, even though it has a Democratic governor, is given emphasis by Republican Bodine. He predicts Eisenhower will win by 400,000 votes.

But a sampling of public opinion shows there is strong Democratic sentiment too.

In Camden, workers of the New York Shipbuilding Corp. roundly booed Eisenhower when he visited there on a campaign tour in 1952.

Five or six workers, interviewed at the same intersection where the booing occurred, indicated they don't "like Ike" better now.

Lt. Gov. Brown Rattles Some Old Skeletons

Would-Be Governor Revives Talk Of O'Neill-Lausche 'Deal'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's personable lieutenant governor has taken on the role of political skeleton rattler to fire up his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

John W. Brown, former Medina mayor and state highway patrolman, carried out an advance promise to "open a few closet doors and expose some political skeletons" in television broadcasts.

He revived talk of a "deal" between his May 8 primary election opponent, Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, and Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who passed up a likely sixth term to run for U.S. Senator and presidential "favorite son".

O'Neill and Lausche declined comment. Both previously denied any "deal".

Brown termed "gratifying" the response to his broadcasts made in the face of what he said were warnings against political suicide.

The lieutenant governor reported that a number of listeners appeared at his Statehouse office to make $1 campaign contributions.

Wasted Water And Fight Against Pollution

It is a question as to how many people really give much serious thought to the waste of water until they find themselves brought up short with stringent limitations as to how much, if any, they can have.

In our own community, and in fact all over Ohio, realization of the need for protection of water supplies, as well as the necessity of fighting pollution of our streams and underground sources, has been getting more attention in the past few years.

When any observer stops to think, he or she will soon take note that water is a great factor in nearly everything that is produced. Just consider what the water needs of our own city and county have become.

Authoritative sources point out that in Ohio the equivalent of 1,100 gallons of water a day is consumed by heavy industry for each resident. It is said to take up to 80,000 gallons to make one ton of steel. Ohio farmers, too, need huge quantities; 1,300 gallons are required to produce a pound of beef, according to one reliable report.

In homes across the state individuals draw on an average of about 100 gallons a day for washing, cooking, and sanitary purposes. Water is the most precious resource in Ohio; nothing should be left undone to conserve it.

The industry member and president of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, observed in a recent speech:

"A century ago, some men were calling our growing cities a blight on the countryside, because they brought with them filth and disease and ugliness. We have fought to eliminate the filth. We have conquered most of the diseases. We have beautiful homes, buildings, and streets. Until recently, however, there was a large area of neglect.

"We poured the wastes of our cities into streams. We dumped into the streams all of the sanitary wastes from our sewers and all of the process wastes from our industries. We took the attitude: 'Let the man downstream worry. Let him clean the water if he wants to use it.'"

Reports indicate that attitude has changed. It changed largely because many Ohio streams and rivers became so contaminated that it was impossible to sustain life or manufacture with their waters. We learned that polluted water can be as bad as no water at all.

In 1951 the Ohio General Assembly took action. It adopted stringent pollution control laws and authorized interstate compacts with Ohio's neighbors for cleaning tributaries of the Ohio River. Since then towns and cities throughout the river area have invested millions of dollars in new sanitation plants. Moreover, 247 Ohio industries have either completed or are in the process of building waste treatment facilities, while another 176 companies have taken steps to curb the disposal of raw waste. And the other day the city of Pittsburgh negotiated a $100,000,000 loan for a sewage treatment project that will serve that city and 66 surrounding communities.

This is heartening. The prosperity and health of Ohioans depend on the water flowing through the streams and river that cross the state. Pollution must be curbed at all costs.

Butcher Bucks Bummarees

LONDON (AP)—A beefy butcher is bucking the bummarees of London's big wholesale meat market and his fight has stirred up a nationwide stew.

Six footer David Durrant, a 41-year-old butcher and owner of two shops, has challenged Britain's largest union, the Transport and General Workers (TGWU).

And the bummarees?

That's a quaint old English nickname for the 600 licensed porters, all TGWU members, at Smithfield market who lug the heavy sides of beef from the wholesalers' counters to the retailers' trucks.

Durrant says he is fighting for the right to carry the meat himself and pass the saving in porters' fees to his customers. At a time of rising food prices, that's popular with the housewives. But the bummarees insist they alone are entitled to do the toting and they threaten a strike should the butcher ultimately win.

"No one will take any meat away from the market except a licensed porter," declares the spokesman, John Spencer Tribe, styled the "King of Smithfield."

Durrant opened his fight by winning a court test case. But when he tried to exercise his new-won legal right to haul his own meat wholesalers, fearing a strike, refused to sell him supplies. So he was forced to use the porters.

By Edwin Shank

(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

The butcher claims he pays on the average 5 to 6 pounds ($14 to $16.80) weekly to porters to carry his meat and that it adds a penny a pound to his shop price of meat.

Retail meat traders have backed Durrant, appealing to the Lord Mayor of the City of London to intervene. The city owns the market, the wholesalers are its tenants and it licenses the bummarees.

The 11,000-strong national union of small shopkeepers also pledged Durrant its support. President Tom Lynch said "the first duty of wholesalers is to their retail customers and not to powerful trade unions."

The fight goes on.

At Least He Attracted Attention

There was something of a controversy in Syracuse, New York, over an address delivered by Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University before the local manufacturers association. The Chancellor ought to be honored that his speech attracted attention and created a fuss because most such speeches pass unnoticed and do not excite as much interest these days as the private measurements of a female saloon singer.

What stirred the excitement were some statements on communism which included these sentences:

"Without minimizing the danger of the communist conspiracy, I think it is safe to say the battle for men's minds in America will not be won by the communist party. The victory here is clear cut and final."

The Chancellor talked too much and far beyond his knowledge, which sometimes happens to learned men who often believe that having specialized in something, they possess knowledge of everything. This also is a fault of columnists, editorial writers, female lecturers and most politicians. The Chinese used to believe that if a man could write a good essay on the classics, he could do anything, even to building a bridge, and the amazing fact is that some could. So we cannot criticize the Chancellor for being like the rest of us.

However, I might suggest to the Chancellor that he might make a study of textbooks currently used in his and other universities to see how effectively the capitalist concept of life is being undermined and as a substitute for it, socialism in various forms is offered to our young people. I find such textbooks not only in economics and politics but in history, sociology, psychology and in that hodge-podge of subjects called contemporary civilization which is a very short cut to culture. It is more effective to influence the young mind through textbooks than by direct political propaganda, particularly in this country where acaademic freedom is as sacred as an amendment to the Constitution and includes the privilege not only of being untruthful but of marking down students who indicate that they have free minds by differing from the obiter dicta of their instructors some of whom apparently get their knowledge from Soviet encyclopedias. This is not a generalization but a suggestion to the Chancellor that he do a research job on the subject.

The real issue is, however, not what Chancellor Tolley said but what he did not say. For if the "victory here is clear cut and final," what is it a victory for? The answer to that I do not see in this speech, although it may be that what I have before me is incomplete. Certainly the opposite of Marxism is not capitalism, and if the victory which is "clear cut and final" is the capitalism, Chancellor Tolley must be mistaken because this country is moving rapidly away from individualistic capitalism toward a very peculiar mixed system in which the government exercises a control over individual earnings not only through the punitive graduated income tax, but by various social controls which leave little to individual judgment save risk.

Furthermore, the anti-trust laws, as interpreted by the Eisenhower administration, place a control upon private enterprise which leaves few advantages to competence, ability, ingenuity and success. Whereas Keynesian economics no longer dominates our treasury, no other logical system does and therefore only those with inherited wealth can really benefit by their enterprise sufficiently to establish a competence for their progeny and even such persons now find it more advantageous to establish socialized foundations rather than to amass and use the results of their labors.

So, we reach the point where we must again ask the learned Chancellor to tell us what is it that has won the victory "clear cut and final" over Marxism. I would suggest that the Chancellor read the current transcripts issued last week and this week and presumably next week by the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate on the scope of Soviet activity in the United States. This series of studies is one of the most interesting and for a scholar, scholarly documents of current American life. He will discover that while many believe that the communists in the United States have failed, the fact is that Marxism is continuing to be an important influence in our lives, although indirectly it is true. Some of us may still be fighting, but there has been no clear cut or final victory.

Liquid Polish Fumes Fatal To Boy, 8

TORRINGTON, Wyo. (AP)—Three small brothers decided to help with the housework by applying liquid polish to the furniture.

But the idea turned into tragedy while their mother, Mrs. Raymond Caneva, was visiting a neighbor. The family physician said fumes from the polish apparently killed Michael Caneva, 8.

His brothers, Randy, 6, and Johnny, 4, were found unconscious. They were revived at a hospital.

Eyes Reveal Secrets About Body Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN
Doctors are not soothsayers or fortune tellers. Yet frequently they can tell whether you have some unsuspected illness simply by looking into your eyes.

Your eyes often reveal secrets about your bodily health. They act as sort of a barometer by revealing deep-seated conditions.

Intricate Network

By using an ophthalmoscope, an eye specialist can examine the intricate network of the retina, the flattened end of the optic nerve which is spread across the back part of your eye.

The ophthalmoscope is an instrument, commonly used by vision specialists, which casts a narrow beam of bright light through the pupil to the back of your eye. The light is then reflected into the eye of the examiner, giving him a clear and detailed view of the retina.

Characteristic Marks

Many facts about you leave their characteristic marks on the retina. With the ophthalmoscope, a specialist can tell whether you have any number of physical ailments.

He may detect heart trouble, anemia, epilepsy, hardening of the arteries, pneumonia, diphtheria, influenza, and even measles or mumps.

And, of course, he'll be able to find eye diseases which might be present and any visual errors such as astigmatism, nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Emotional Disorders

Emotional disorders, too, may be uncovered. Many doctors say that such disorders have physical manifestations in the eye more frequently than in any other organ.

Thus, your eyes are closely correlated with your entire body. Even if you don't have visual trouble, regular eye examinations, especially if you are past middle age, may provide valuable guidance on the care of your general health.

White And Negro Churches To Merge

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Episcopal congregations, one Negro, the other white, have announced plans to merge the first Sunday after Easter.

The Rev. Kenneth Curry, rector of the Negro St. Simon the Cyprian Episcopal Church, said Sunday, "The action was taken for the good of the church. We felt it would be more sensible for the two congregations to worship together at the same church."

The St. Simon church will be closed after the merger with the Church of the Holy Communion. Both churches are in suburban Maywood.

About a third of all passengers between Paris and London travel by air, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It is the irony of Stalin's fate that through his very strength he made it possible for his heirs to denounce and disown him.

It would be misleading to interpret the present convulsion in the Russian spirit — the repudiation of Stalin — as a mark of weakness among his successors or in the Russian structure.

There is no evidence of such weakness. On the contrary, Russia ranks next to the United States in steel production and may be ahead in making warplanes.

It's reported ahead in training scientists.

It has produced the atomic bomb. It has produced a hydrogen explosion.

It has under its thumb over 400 million people, half in Russia, half in the European satellites. It reached this towering position under Stalin's leadership.

Its achievements can be attributed, to be sure, to the energy and genius of the Russian people. But when Stalin took over in 1924 it was not only a backward country but a highly illiterate one. Under his guidance the foundations for the present successes were laid.

Now the new Kremlin men — particularly Communist party boss Khrushchev — are reported to be revealing their old boss as a bloody tyrant and murderer. There's no doubt he was that.

That his heirs feel free to say so seems to speak well for their self-confidence. Stalin was the symbol of absolute power. If his successors were unsure of themselves they would need to wrap themselves in that symbol, not destroy it.

If he was so bad, why didn't the new strong men say so while he was alive and destroy him? They reportedly say they were afraid of him. They know their present repudiation of him could cause upheaval in the Communist party at home and abroad. Apparently they feel so sure of their own strength that they do not fear defection or insurrection.

They could let his memory disappear from public consciousness by not mentioning him any more. That would have been the easy way.

Why then are they doing it this way?

Perhaps these are the reasons:
1. The drastic emphasis on collective, instead of individual, leadership may be the preliminary to some sharp shift in the Communist policy, if not in doctrine.
2. To get greater cooperation from the Russian masses by giving them a larger sense of participation in the country's welfare than they could ever have had under Stalin, who made it clear that individuals were expendable ciphers.

3. To make Russian communism more attractive to other peoples in Asia and Europe by trying to create a sense of good will and confidence in the honesty of the new leadership than Stalin was able to inspire.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A meeting of about 2,000 Cincinnati Negroes last night contributed $1,600 and another $800 in pledges toward the defense of colored people arrested in a bus-boycott case in Montgomery, Ala.

The fund-raising meeting heard the Rev. R. J. Glasco of Montgomery, one of those charged with bus boycotting, say the issue in the case is "a battle between justice and injustice, not between races."

Lt. Gov. Brown Rattles Some Old Skeletons

Would-Be Governor Revives Talk Of O'Neill-Lausche 'Deal'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's personable lieutenant governor has taken on the role of political skeleton rattler to fire up his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

John W. Brown, former Medina mayor and state highway patrol man, carried out an advance promise to "open a few closet doors and expose some political skeletons" in television broadcasts.

He revived talk of a "deal" between his May 8 primary election opponent, Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, and Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who passed up a likely sixth term to run for U.S. Senator and presidential "favorite son".

O'Neill and Lausche declined comment. Both previously denied any "deal".

Brown termed "gratifying" the response to his broadcasts made in the face of what he said were warnings against political suicide.

The lieutenant governor reported that a number of listeners appeared at his Statehouse office to make $1 campaign contributions.

Brown said in a four-station telecast he would rather have a dollar each from 10,000 men than $10,000 from one man wanting to dictate policies of state.

"My skirts are clean from political intrigue . . . I have made no deals," the lieutenant governor declared. "Not one penny of my campaign money or support has come from the professional lobbyist or the king makers. I wonder if my opponent will make that statement."

Brown identified the "king makers" only as a combine of professional lobbyists and vested business interests determined to control Ohio government regardless of party.

"Their influence," he said, "reaches out into all parts of the State of Ohio, into her banks, her big industrial empire, her newspapers and into certain political organizations . . ."

"The king makers are the same clique which has backed the present Democrat governor against every Republican who ever ran against him, including Tom Herbert."

Former Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, now a candidate for Ohio Supreme Court judge, beat Lausche in the 1946 election but lost to him in 1948.

Asserting they now were out to slash his political throat, Brown said O'Neill "was hand picked months ago by the king makers as their 'heir apparent' to his friendly Democrat (Lausche)."

Brown said O'Neill, now in his third term as attorney general, resisted pleas of GOP leaders to challenge Lausche in 1952 and 1954 during his first term as lieutenant governor that he wanted to be governor but didn't run until this year. Brown now is serving his second term as lieutenant governor.

Sounding what some termed a note of desperation, Brown said he now had two courses of action left — give up and run for cover or stand and fight.

The lieutenant governor vowed

to stand and fight the O'Neill "steamroller."

"If we can enlist the support and enthusiasm of the average voter," he said, "my opponents can have all the gold and influence they can get—they can't beat a people's candidate."

With tongue in cheek, friends of O'Neill wondered if Brown didn't borrow a few pages from Lausche's book. They asserted the five-term governor was adept at setting up straw men to knock down during campaigns.

Poet's Corner

THE ASS
I am a beast of burden.
The humblest of my kind;
But once upon my back
I bore a King;
He strode me down
An ancient street
With cheering thousands lined;
Their glad hosannas
Vaded the welkin ring;
He might have rode
A prancing steed,
More fitting to his worth;
He might have worn
A chaplet on his head;
But he came as one rejected
By the rulers of the earth;
And he chose to walk
The common way instead.

The only kingdom that he had,
Was in the hearts of men;
The only crown he wore,
Was one of thorn;
Today, his kingdom is the world
That once rejected him;
Today, men give him love
Instead of scorn.

I am a beast of burden. . .
I am the jest of men;
They smile at me
And gibe at me
When I give chance to pass;
I forgotten is the honored role
To which I once was called;
Forgotten that the King of Kings
Once rode upon an ass.

Japanese Film To Get 'Oscar'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A Japanese film will be the only honorary Oscar winner at this year's Academy Awards ceremony.

President George Seaton of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced today that the Academy's governors did not vote this year an Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award, usually given an outstanding producer or any other honorary awards except for a foreign language film.

The Oscar for the film "Samurai" will be presented in New York by Claudette Colbert at ceremonies Wednesday night, Seaton said.

Jersey GOP, Dems Prepare For Victories This Year

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Democrats seeking to take New Jersey out of President Eisenhower's column say they hope to dispel a feeling he is "above politics" by linking him directly to administration activities that have aroused criticism.

Republican leaders predict Eisenhower will win by a larger margin than his 359,000-vote lead in 1952. They contend efforts to destroy his popularity will get nowhere.

That is the gist of opinion picked up on a reporter's political pulse-taking tour from Jersey City and Newark, through Trenton, to Camden.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner, the state's 47-year-old chief executive, since he suffered his heart attack?

"He made the decision to run," said Bodine. "He wouldn't have unless he felt up to it. We are willing to abide by that decision."

Raymond Bateman, executive director of the Republican State committee, said there has been a recent swing of public opinion in favor of Nixon.

A Democratic local office holder

On the other side, Republican State Chairman Samuel Bodine of Flemington says he has found the reaction of the average person to Eisenhower's second-term announcement is "excellent."

"They feel the country is safe in his hands," Bodine said. "They want him to continue on."

How about Eisenhower's health, said his party's task is to dispel a popular feeling that Eisenhower is a "dispenser of peace and prosperity . . . above politics."

"How are you going to beat him?" he inquired, asking that he not be named.

But this man saw solace in 1948, when Harry Truman upset predictions by beating out highly favored Thomas E. Dewey.

The Democrats' realization that they have an uphill fight to carry New Jersey, even though it has a Democratic governor, is given emphasis by Republican Bodine. He predicts Eisenhower will win by 400,000 votes.

But a sampling of public opinion shows there is strong Democratic sentiment too.

In Camden, workers of the New York Shipbuilding Corp. roundly booed Eisenhower when he visited there on a campaign tour in 1952.

Five or six workers, interviewed at the same intersection where the booing occurred, indicated they don't "like Ike" better now.

Boron* keeps your engine powerful...longer!

One big reason your car loses power is deposit build-up on valves. In time, these deposits keep valves from seating properly. Gases of combustion leak out and some of your power is wasted. Then, these gases start to burn deep channels in the valves, letting even more power escape.

Boron—a great new motor fuel discovery—changes all that! Valves taken from test engines, driven the same number of miles under identical conditions, show the difference Boron makes. With Boron, valves show far less deposit—seat properly thousands of miles longer. Power stays in your engine where it belongs.

You can keep your engine powerful longer by filling up with Sohio Boron Supreme every time you buy gasoline.

No Favorites Seen In Ohio Cage Tourneys

State Finals Scheduled To Get Underway In Cleveland On Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P) — There's no favorite in either class in the weekend Ohio high school basketball championships at Cleveland.

Herman (Bup) Rearick, veteran coach of the Canton McKinley bulldogs who are making their 16th trip in 24 years to the big meet (a record), summed it up today with:

"When teams get this far, anyone can beat anyone."

Eight teams are still in, four in each class, with 1,044 squads strewn along the tournament trail, ousted in the long lose-and-outr competition.

For Friday's semi-finals in the 10,000 seat Cleveland Arena the pairings are:

CLASS B
1:35 P. M.: Aracenum (25-1) vs Willshire (27-0).
3:05 P. M.: Columbus St. Mary (23-11) vs Chagrin Falls (21-5).

CLASS A
7:35 P. M.: Canton McKinley (21-3) vs Columbus North (19-5).
9:5 P. M.: Cleveland East Tech (23-0) vs Middletown (23-0).

The five-minute leeway on the usual starting times were ordered by Commissioner H. W. Emswiler to allow radio and television news time to give the lineups, etc., before the tip-off.

Middletown, only ex-champion in the field, goes after its sixth class A title. If victorious, Coach Paul Walker could wrap up the biggest of a flock of 1956 laurels. The Middies led The Associated Press class A poll all season. Walker was named coach of the year, and Jerry Lucas, 6-7 sophomore of Middletown was selected the class A player of the year.

Canton McKinley, four times in the finals but never a winner, also could put the icing on a pretty fair athletic cake for the season. The Bulldogs won the state scholastic football title and the swimming championship, and Canton coed Georgine Ness snagged the Ohio cherry pie baking laurels.

Middletown is in the state meet for the 12th time, and its five championships are approached only by the four won by Dayton Stivers between 1924 and 1930. McKinley is practically a regular, with 16 appearances, and Columbus North is in for the fifth time—its best being as runner-up to Akron West in 1932.

Cleveland East Tech not only is making its first appearance, but is the first of that city's public schools ever to make the grade.

Willshire, leader of the class B poll all season, was runnerup to Lockland Wayne last year, and three times prior to that was belted out in the quarter finals—but Arcanum, Columbus St. Marys and Chagrin Falls are making their debut in the title test.

Movies of all games will be taken under state association supervision and 1,400-foot reels sold to the competing schools for $60 each, which Emswiler said was about half the cost.

Emswiler also said officials will not be announced until just before game time; ladders will be provided to help victorious teams cut nets from the baskets as souvenirs; no school bands will be permitted to attend, but each school may have six cheerleaders; team expense will be $2 per meal and $4 per night lodging for each boy, $1.50 per mile one-way travel allowance, and $125 bonus for each game played and teams must furnish their own towels.

Each of the eight coaches was given 1,000 tickets for the opening games, and can get more if they need them. Students of competing schools will pay $1 for a ducat, owners will pay $1.50. Emswiler said there would be no check against the schools to determine how many are sold to students or outsiders.

"We trust you to turn in what you collect," the commissioner told the school representatives.

He said 3,900 tickets had been disposed of to legislators, principals, superintendents and coaches. Each legislator is permitted to buy two, as are the officials of the 1,044 eliminated schools.

Here's how the finalists will compare this weekend (won-lost records, points scored and the average in that order):

Personnel of the Ohio Division of Wildlife contacted 4,524 waterfowl hunters in the field during the 1955 waterfowl hunting season.

These hunters, who hunted an average of about five days each during 1955, killed approximately four ducks and one coot each for the season. Only about one of every 18 hunters was able to kill a goose.

A comparison of the waterfowl take for 1955 indicates that the average kill per man per season of ducks was up 69 percent, of geese down 20 percent and of coots down about five percent over the previous season. Total waterfowl kill per man per season was increased a bit to 43 percent over 1954.

The crippling loss, although apparently reduced over the previous year, continued to be substantial. About one waterfowl was crippled and lost for every 10 that were killed and retrieved.

gratulate her parents.

The delicious duck dinner was served at one long table centered with a tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses topped with a gold basket holding the numerals "50" in gold, and also a cake decorated in pastel roses topped with the inscription "Lucille and Tom", which was a surprise gift from Mr. and Mrs. Rife to their daughter and son-in-law.

No Favorites Seen In Ohio Cage Tourneys

State Finals Scheduled To Get Underway In Cleveland On Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P) — There's no favorite in either class in the weekend Ohio high school basketball championships at Cleveland.

Herman (Bup) Bearick, veteran coach of the Canton McKinley bulldogs who are making their 16th trip in 24 years to the big meet (a record), summed it up today with:

"When teams get this far, anyone can beat anyone."

Eight teams are still in, four in each class, with 1,044 squads strewn along the tournament trail, ousted in the long lose-and-out competition.

For Friday's semi-finals in the 10,000 seat Cleveland Arena the pairings are:

CLASS B

1:35 P. M.: Arcanum (25-1) vs. Willshire (27-0).
3:05 P. M.: Columbus St. Mary (23-11) vs. Chagrin Falls (21-5).

CLASS A

7:35 P. M.: Canton McKinley (21-3) vs. Columbus North (19-5).
9:5 P. M.: Cleveland East Tech (23-0) vs. Middletown (23-0).

The five-minute leeway on the usual starting time were ordered by Commissioner H. W. Emswiler to allow radio and television men time to give the lineups, etc., before the tip-off.

Middletown, only ex-champion in the field, goes after its sixth class A title. If victorious, Coach Paul Walker could wrap up the biggest of a flock of 1956 laurels. The Middies led The Associated Press class A poll all season. Walker was named coach of the year, and Jerry Lucas, 6-7 sophomore of Middletown was selected the class A player of the year.

Canton McKinley, four times in the finals but never a winner, also could put the icing on a pretty fair athletic cake for the season. The Bulldogs won the state scholastic football title and the swimming championship, and Canton coed Georgine Ness snagged the Ohio cherry pie baking laurels.

Middletown is in the state meet for the 12th time, and its five championships are approached only by the four won by Dayton Stivers between 1924 and 1930. McKinley is practically a regular, with 16 appearances, and Columbus North is in for the fifth time—its best being as runner-up to Akron West in 1932.

Cleveland East Tech not only is making its first appearance, but is the first of that city's public schools ever to make the grade.

Willshire, leader of the class B poll all season, was runnerup to Lockland Wayne last year, and three times prior to that was belted out in the quarter-finals—but Arcanum, Columbus St. Marys and Chagrin Falls are making their debut in the title test.

Movies of all games will be taken under state association supervision and 1,400-foot reels sold to the competing schools for $60 each, which Emswiler said was about half the cost.

Emswiler also said officials will not be announced until just before game time; ladders will be provided to help victorious teams cut nets from the baskets as souvenirs; no school bands will be permitted to attend, but each school may have six cheerleaders; team expense will be $2 per meal and $4 per night lodging for each boy, $1.50 per mile one-way travel allowance, and $125 bonus for each game played and teams must furnish their own towels.

Each of the eight coaches was given 1,000 tickets for the opening games, and can get more if they need them. Students of competing schools will pay $1 for a ducat, owners will pay $1.50. Emswiler said there would be no check against the schools to determine how many are sold to students or outsiders.

"We trust you to turn in what you collect," the commissioner told the school representatives.

He said 3,900 tickets had been disposed of to legislators, principals, superintendents and coaches. Each legislator is permitted to buy two, as are the officials of the 1,044 eliminated schools.

Here's how the finalists will compare this weekend (won-lost records, points scored and the average in that order):

CLASS A

7:35 p. m. Friday—Canton McKinley, 21-3, 1489.

HERE ARE THE SEVEN LEADING contenders in the U.S. Ladies Senior Figure Skating Championship at Philadelphia. Frisco Dons Pointing To NCAA Semis

CHICAGO (P)—The San Francisco Dons, riding a 53-game winning streak, and three other of the nation's ranked college teams pointed for the semifinals of the NCAA's national championship today.

The Dons, defending champions and the nation's No. 1 ranked team with a string of 27 victories this year, tangle with Southern Methodist, ranked seventh, in one semifinal in Evanston, Ill., Thursday night. The other game matches Iowa's Big Ten champion, ranked fourth, and Temple's surprising Owls, ranked 15th. The finals will be played Friday night.

With All America Bill Russell dropping in 27 points and again throwing up an iron curtain around the basket on defense, San Francisco turned back Utah Saturday night 92-77.

The Mustangs of Southern Methodist, with 19 straight triumphs, reached the semifinals by downing Oklahoma City 84-63.

Carl Cain's 34 points spearheaded Iowa to its 80-77 triumph over Kentucky as the Hawkeyes posted their 16th straight victory. Two free throws by Hal (King) Lear with two seconds remaining carried Temple into the round of four with a 60-58 decision over Canisius.

Fur, Fin and Campfire

By JACK SORDS

THE MINK IS THE BIGGEST MONEY MAKER AND ALSO ONE OF THE MOST DIFFICULT TO TRAP. IT REQUIRES A SKILLFULLY ARRANGED SET TO OUTSMART HIM. WATER SETS ARE THE MOST DEPENDABLE. HE IS SELDOM SEEN SO LOOK FOR TRACKS. MINK TRAVEL A REGULAR ROUTE MAKING A ROUND EVERY SEVEN TO TEN DAYS.

FRONT HIND

THERE IS LITTLE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FRONT AND HIND TRACKS.

IT INHABITS THE BANKS OF LAKES, STREAMS AND RIVERS AND OFTEN FORAGES INLAND WHEN FOOD ALONG THE WATER'S EDGE IS SCARCE. SMALL MAMMALS, FISH, FROGS, SALAMANDERS AND CRAY FISH ARE ITS FAVORITE FOODS.

THE BANK BURROW SET IS EXCELLENT FOR TRAPPING MINK. THEY SHOOP INTO ALL ABOVE-WATER MUSKRAT DENS. EVERY HOLE BANK CREVICE AND NOTTED TREE STUMP THAT MIGHT PROVIDE FOOD IS INVESTIGATED IN MAKING THEIR ROUNDS.

by a show official.

The accepted record for holding out under water without aids such as aqualungs is 6 minutes 29 seconds and was set 39 years ago in France. James Ray Jordan held his breath 8 minutes 3 3/5 seconds last week in San Diego.

Berrios, Bell Due To Meet Again

NEW YORK (P)—Miguel Berrios, a chunky, busy punching feather weight from Puerto Rico, and skillful Bobby Bell of Youngstown, collide again tonight in a return 10-rounder in St. Nicholas Arena.

If it's anything like their first clash on Feb. 27 it should be a dilly. Berrios edged the Ohio veteran in a punching bee that was as close as you could make it.

The 23-year-old Berrios, now living in New York after Army service, has piled up a 15-5 record. Bell's record is 36-25-3.

Pimlico race course's clubhouse was built in 1870. It is one of the oldest structures in racing. The basement originally contained bowling alleys for fans to use between races.

Jenkins Collects Skate Title Again

PHILADELPHIA (P) — Hayes Alan Jenkins has his fourth consecutive American figure skating crown, winning from Ronnie Robertson, his arch rival.

Jenkins repeated his Olympic and world competition performances here Saturday night in edging Robertson, 18, of Long Beach, Calif., for the third time.

Jenkins, 22, of Colorado Springs, Colo., may have made his last appearance in big time amateur competition. He announced before the meet that he would hang up his skates to devote full time to a law career. He enters Harvard law school in September.

Louisville Due To Test Duquesne

NEW YORK (P)—Louisville's Cardinals get their first chance to strut their stuff tonight in a run-in with Duquesne as the National Invitation Basketball Tournament enters the quarterfinals.

The Cardinals, who matched Dayton's 23-3 record and twice dumped the Ohioans (66-64, 59-56) during the season, were allotted the No. 2 spot in the seedings behind the favored Flyers.

Fourth-seeded Niagara plays St. Francis of Brooklyn in the opener of the twin bill tonight.

Dayton meets Xavier and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia plays Seton Hall tomorrow night.

Pitcher Marv Grissom is the oldest player for the New York Giants. He is 38.

BY RAY BRANDENBURG

We see where the Director for the National Institute for Human Relations claims that teachers are numbered among the best wives. He reports the schoolmarm are lovable, eager to marry, and less addicted to "yakity-yakity" than most other women. It may be just that they get so tired from talking to some of the less enthusiastic students all day that it's a relief to be quiet.

The Director also says they have a deep affection for children. It might be interesting to get a reaction on this from the kid who was caught chewing gum in class today. Whether the Director is a good judge or not on this subject, he's on the right track. School teachers deserve a large helping of praise. They miss out on it sometimes. If a child gets good grades, we give him credit; if he gets poor ones... we blame the teacher!

Today I am saddened by the loss of one of my closest friends. In the passing of Elmer Armbrust Fayette County has lost a fine citizen. He was a man of strong convictions and possessed the courage to stand up and be counted on any issue. In spite of his handicap he asked no favors from anyone. His keen business judgement was almost uncanny. In addition he was very civic minded and liberally supported his church and his community. The examples he set can well be carried on by all of us.

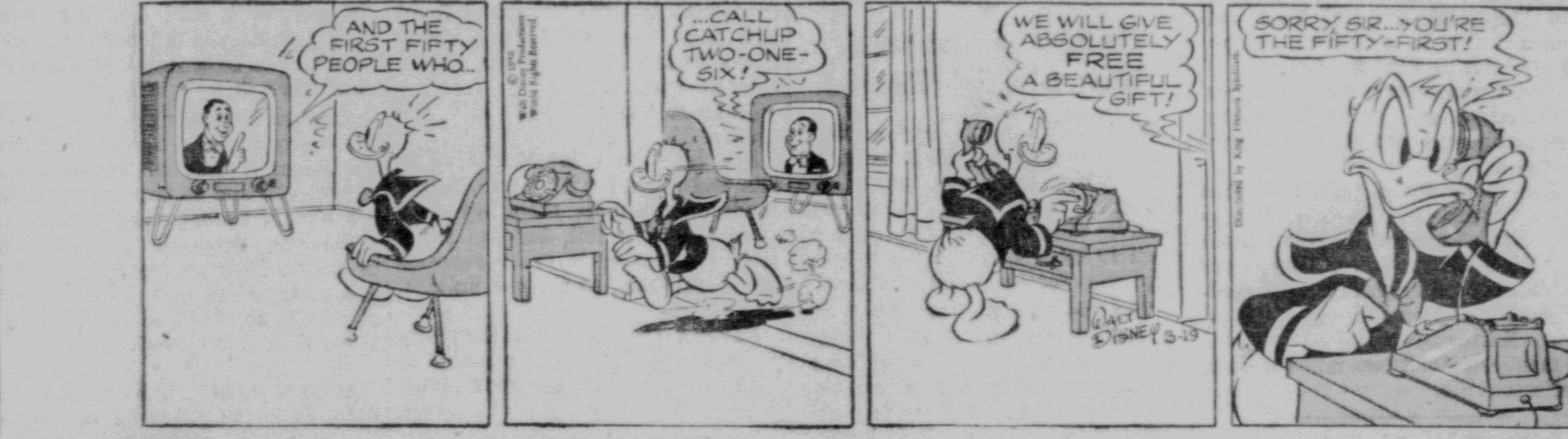

In Irvington, N. J., a fellow tried to pay the fine on a traffic ticket with a home-made $10 bill. That's carrying "do-it-yourself" too far. Regular tire rotation and careful driving will prolong the life of your tires... but there's another aspect of tire wear you can't take care of yourself... and that's accurate wheel alignment and balancing. We have the equipment to do that job right... and give you longer tire life and less wear on your car. R. BRANDENBURG MOTOR SALES, INC. 524 Clinton Ave. Phone 2575.

Dayton Youth Traffic Victim

Fourth Fatality In County This Year

Neil Adrian Lewis, 20 of Dayton, who was critically injured at 1:30 A. M. March 10, when the car he was driving crashed into the end of a bridge on the Middle Jamestown Road about 3 miles west of Jeffersonville where the highway crosses Rattlesnake Creek, died in a Dayton Hospital Sunday as result of the injuries.

Lewis is the fourth traffic fatality in Fayette County so far this year.

Lewis was driving a car owned by Ralph D. Gulyear of Miamisburg. He and Gulyear, officers stated, had been calling on two girl friends in the Jeffersonville community, and Lewis had taken one girl home and was enroute to pick up Gulyear, when the car failed to make a curve at the bridge approach, and struck the bridge.

He sustained a fractured jaw and other injuries, was brought to Memorial Hospital here and later taken to a Dayton Hospital where he died Sunday.

The Gulyear car was completely wrecked and damage amounting to upward of $500 was caused to the bridge.

The other three traffic victims of the year in Fayette County were: On January 19, Noah Stant and Otis Ernest Storer, city, were killed on CCC Highway near Madison Mills and on January 23 David Ross Ellison was killed on the Jamestown Road two miles west of Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Riggs Dies In Bloomingburg

Mrs. Lillie Belle Riggs, 76, died at her home in Bloomingburg at 7:20 A. M. Monday following a week of serious illness.

Mrs. Riggs, who had lived in Bloomingburg only a short time, had been in failing health for the last 15 years.

She was a native of Adams County, but came to Fayette County from Greene County a little over six years ago. She was a member of the Christian Holiness Church.

She is survived by her husband, John Riggs; two sons, Noble G. Riggs of Jamestown and Rev. Austin Edgar Riggs of Lancaster; three daughters, Mrs. Dora Shuster of Xenia, Mrs. Edith Foster of Xenia and Mrs. Elizabeth Oert with whom she made her home; 11 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; a brother, John Inlow of Springfield and four sisters, Mrs. Estelle Cartwright of Columbus, Mrs. Blanche Shively of Trenton, Mo., Mrs. Roxie Hetlerbran of Peebles and Mrs. Norah Cooper of West Union.

Funeral services in charge of the Gertsner Funeral Home have not been completed.

Driver Badly Hurt Another Arrested

Two men were injured, one critically, in a wreck on Route 35 near the Roadside Park north of Austin in Ross County, Sunday at 10 A. M. and both were brought to Memorial Hospital in the Gertsner ambulance. One was later removed to the Ross County jail to face charges of driving while drunk, reports stated.

The men injured were Ralph P. Carroll, of Clarksville, and John I. Johnson, of Frankfort.

Carroll was injured internally and reports indicated his condition is serious.

Johnson was treated at the hospital here, and held here in custody of Sheriff Orland Hays until Ross County officers came after him.

State Highways Cleared Slowly

Unusual Situation In Central Ohio

Even some of the top priority highways in Central Ohio went upward of three days before they were freed of the heavy snowfall which came at an early hour Friday.

As late as Saturday afternoon, even during the thaw the Columbus Road, which has top priority over all other roads in the county, except 22 west, was covered with frozen slush, not only in Fayette County but most of it in Madison, Pickaway and Franklin counties.

It was stated that the snow had become packed into thick ice and snow plows would not touch it.

Because of the thousands of depressions in the snow and ice, driving over a large portion of the road was like driving over a corduroy road.

County Superintendent David Hillery of the State Highway Department, said that he first use of snow plows Friday morning was around 5 o'clock, soon after the snow started falling. He also explained that the Columbus Road had been gone over some seven times before the road was finally cleared Sunday.

Much salt and chloride also was used.

Not only the Columbus Road in this and other counties was in bad condition for more than two days after the snow fell, but the same condition existed in other counties in central Ohio, to a more marked degree.

Fayette County roads generally were reported in better condition than in some of the adjacent counties.

Funeral Is Held For Mrs. Moore

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha L. Moore were held at 10 A. M. Monday at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home with Rev. Arthur George officiating.

He offered prayer, read passages from the Bible and delivered the funeral sermon.

Mrs. Moore, who was well known in this community as a fortune teller, died in Memorial Hospital, Friday evening following a heart attack Thursday at her home on Eastern Avenue.

Pallbearers for the interment in the Waterloo Cemetery were Fire Chief George Hall, John Arnold, Jack Bogard, Carmi Callender, William Gardner and Harold Shackelford, Sr.

Commissioners Review Two Important Reports

Two reports of considerable public interest were discussed during the regular meeting of the Board of Fayette County Commissioners Monday at the Court House.

The first was not directly a commissioners' problem, but the board was definitely concerned when Larry Allen, county auditor, told of the results to date on personal and intangible tax payments.

ALLEN STATED that, at the close of business Saturday in the offices of the county auditor and county treasurer only 1,076 payments had been made as against 1,163 at the same date last year. This means that the payments are running behind although the bad weather the latter part of last week is believed to be a factor in keeping people from making payments.

Last year the total number of such payments was 2,225 and it was generally expected that this number would increase this year, but between now and March 31, the date limit in payment of these taxes, at least 1,179 more tax payments are due. If all who are to pay wait until the last few days of March, the auditor's office will be so crowded that many will have to wait in line.

Another interesting feature about these payments, reported by Auditor Allen, is that on wheat loans between 80 and 85 percent of farmers having such government loans are listing these for taxation but in nearly every case, payments are being made under protest and are being so noted on the tax payment checks received.

ALLEN ALSO reported that the time limit for payment of trailer taxes expires March 31. Only 10 tax payments have been made to date. Last year 75 trailer license taxes were paid at the auditor's office. The amount of tax to be levied is determined as follows:

On or after April 1st and prior to July 1st, $18; On or after July 1st and prior to October 1st, $13.50; On or after October 1st and prior to January 1st, $9; On or after January 1st and prior to April 1st, $4.50.

It was announced Monday that the auditor's and treasurer's offices, along with other offices in the Court House, would be open through the noon hour each day and also on Thursday afternoons till the March 31 time limit for personal and trailer tax payments expires.

The other report in which the commissioners and the general public are interested, was that completed itemized and filed with the board by Ray Wilson and son, Maynard, on the county-owned farm land which they operate under lease through the county commissioners.

THERE ARE approximately 590 acres thus leased on a fifty-fifty cash basis and the report for last year, was gratifying to the commissioners and undoubtedly to the general public.

This land is what was leased from the old infirmary farm and also on the Children's Home farm, with the exception of a few acres retained by the Children's Home for gardening purposes.

The report shows that the total cash net income to the county for last year from this land amounted to $20,998.84. The county's share of total expenses was $8,907.91, making the county's cash net receipts $12,090.93. This nets the county a cash rent of approximately $20.50 per acre, which is regarded by county officials as a very satisfactory return.

There is still insurance payments of approximately $225.83 to be paid from this, however. Also since the land is county owned there is no real estate tax.

IT IS estimated that this real estate tax, plus the small insurance premium still unpaid, would total only approximately $2 per acre, which would mean that the county in the past year of 1955 netted just about $18.50 an acre, above taxes and all expenses, actually more than that, however, because no real estate tax is to be paid.

Wilson and Son operate this farm on the 50-50 basis and furnish all labor and equipment.

Other matters before the commissioners at Monday's meeting were merely routine, including approval of bills payable.

Other things being equal, large fence posts last longer than small ones.

BY RAY BRANDENBURG

We see where the Director for the National Institute for Human Relations claims that teachers are numbered among the best wives. He reports the schoolmarm is lovable, eager to marry, and less addicted to "yakity-yakity" than most other women. It may be just that they get so tired from talking to some of the less enthusiastic students all day that it's a relief to be quiet.

The Director also says they have a deep affection for children. It might be interesting to get a reaction to this from the kid who was caught chewing gum in class today. Whether the Director is a good judge or not on this subject, he's on the right track. School teachers deserve a large helping of praise. They miss out on it sometimes. If a child gets good grades, we give him credit; if he gets poor ones... we blame the teacher!

Today I am saddened by the loss of one of my closest friends. In the passing of Elmer Armbrust Fayette County has lost a fine citizen. He was a man of strong convictions and possessed the courage to stand up and be counted on any issue. In spite of his handicap he asked no favors from anyone. His keen business judgement was almost uncanny. In addition he was very civic minded and liberally supported his church and his community. The examples he set can well be carried by all of us.

In Irvington, N. J., a fellow tried to pay the fine on a traffic ticket with a home-made $10 bill. That's carrying "do-it-yourself" too far. Regular tire rotation and careful driving will prolong the life of your tires... but there's another aspect of tire wear you can't take care of yourself... and that's accurate wheel alignment and balancing. We have the equipment to do that job right... and give you longer tire life and less wear on your car. R. BRANDENBURG MOTOR SALES, INC. 524 Clinton Ave. Phone 2575.

Dayton Youth Traffic Victim

Fourth Fatality In County This Year

Neil Adrian Lewis, 20 of Dayton, who was critically injured at 1:30 A. M. March 10, when the car he was driving crashed into the end of a bridge on the Middle Jamestown Road about 3 miles west of Jeffersonville where the highway crosses Rattlesnake Creek, died in a Dayton Hospital Sunday as result of the injuries.

Lewis is the fourth traffic fatality in Fayette County so far this year.

Lewis was driving a car owned by Ralph D. Gulyear of Miamisburg. He and Gulyear, officers stated, had been calling on two girl friends in the Jeffersonville community, and Lewis had taken one girl home, when the car failed to make a curve at the bridge approach, and struck the bridge.

He sustained a fractured jaw and other injuries, was brought to Memorial Hospital here and later taken to a Dayton Hospital where he died Sunday.

The Gulyear car was completely wrecked and damage amounting to upward of $500 was caused to the bridge.

The other three traffic victims of the year in Fayette County were: On January 19, Noah Stant and Otis Ernest Storer, city, were killed on CCC Highway near Madison Mills and on January 23 David Ross Ellison was killed on the Jamestown Road two miles west of Jeffersonville.

M. and both were brought to Memorial Hospital in the Gertsner ambulance. One was later removed to the Ross County jail to face charges of driving while drunk, reports stated.

The men injured were Ralph P. Carroll, of Clarksville, and John I. Johnson, of Frankfort.

Carroll was injured internally and reports indicated his condition is serious.

Johnson was treated at the hospital here, and held here in custody of Sheriff Orland Hays until Ross County officers came after him.

State Highways Cleared Slowly

Unusual Situation In Central Ohio

Even some of the top priority highways in Central Ohio went upward of three days before they were freed of the heavy snowfall which came at an early hour Friday.

As late as Saturday afternoon, even during the thaw the Columbus Road, which has top priority over all other roads in the county, except 22 west, was covered with frozen slush, not only in Fayette County but most of it in Madison Pickaway and Franklin counties.

It was stated that the snow had become packed into thick ice and snow plows would not touch it.

Because of the thousands of depressions in the snow and ice, driving over a large portion of the road was like driving over a corduroy road.

County Superintendent David Hillery of the State Highway Department, said that he first use of snow plows Friday morning was around 5 o'clock, soon after the snow started falling. He also explained that the Columbus Road had been gone over some seven times before the road was finally cleared Sunday.

Much salt and chloride also was used.

Not only the Columbus Road in this and other counties was in bad condition for more than two days after the snow fell, but the same condition existed in other counties in central Ohio, to a more marked degree.

Fayette County roads generally were reported in better condition than in some of the adjacent counties.

Funeral Is Held For Mrs. Moore

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha L. Moore were held at 10 A. M. Monday at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home with Rev. Arthur George officiating.

He offered prayer, read passages from the Bible and delivered the funeral sermon.

Mrs. Moore, who was well known in this community as a fortune teller, died in Memorial Hospital, Friday evening following a heart attack Thursday at her home on Eastern Avenue.

Pallbearers for the interment in the Waterloo Cemetery were Fire Chief George Hall, John Arnold, Jack Bogard Carmi Callender, William Gardner and Harold Shackleford, Sr.

Commissioners Review Two Important Reports

Two reports of considerable public interest were discussed during the regular meeting of the Board of Fayette County Commissioners Monday at the Court House.

The first was not directly a commissioners' problem, but the board was definitely concerned when Larry Allen, county auditor, told of the results to date on personal and intangible tax payments.

ALLEN STATED that, at the close of business Saturday in the offices of the county auditor and county treasurer only 1,076 payments had been made as against 1,163 at the same date last year.

This means that the payments are running behind although the bad weather the latter part of last week is believed to be a factor in keeping people from making payments.

Last year the total number of such payments was 2,225 and it was generally expected that this number would increase this year, but between now and March 31, the date limit in payment of these taxes, at least 1,179 more tax payments are due. If all who are to pay wait until the last few days of March, the auditor's office will be so crowded that many will have to wait in line.

Another interesting feature about these payments, reported by Auditor Allen, is that on wheat loans between 80 and 85 percent of farmers having such government loans are listing these for taxation but in nearly every case, payments are being made under protest and are being so noted on the tax payment checks received.

ALLEN ALSO reported that the time limit for payment of trailer taxes expires March 31. Only 10 tax payments have been made to date. Last year 75 trailer license taxes were paid at the auditor's office. The amount of tax to be levied is determined as follows:

On or after April 1st and prior to July 1st, $18; On or after July 1st and prior to October 1st, $13.50; On or after October 1st and prior to January 1st, $9; On or after January 1st and prior to April 1st, $4.50.

It was announced Monday that the auditor's and treasurer's offices, along with other offices in the Court House, would be open through the noon hour each day and also on Thursday afternoons until the March 31 time limit for personal and trailer tax payments expires.

The other report in which the commissioners and the general public are interested, was that completed itemized and filed with the board by Ray Wilson and son, Maynard, on the county-owned farm land which they operate under lease through the county commissioners.

THERE ARE approximately 590 acres thus leased on a fifty-fifty cash basis and the report for last year, was gratifying to the commissioners and undoubtedly to the general public.

This land is what was leased from the old infirmary farm and also on the Children's Home farm, with the exception of a few acres retained by the Children's Home for gardening purposes.

The report shows that the total cash net income to the county for last year from this land amounted to $20,998.84. The county's share of total expenses was $8,907.91, making the county's cash net receipts $12,090.93. This nets the county a cash rent of approximately $20.50 per acre, which is regarded by county officials as a very satisfactory return.

There is still insurance payments of approximately $225.83 to be paid from this, however. Also since the land is county owned there is no real estate tax.

IT IS estimated that this real estate tax, plus the small insurance premium still unpaid, would total only approximately $2 per acre, which would mean that the county in the past year of 1955 netted just about $18.50 an acre, above taxes and all expenses, actually more than that, however, because no real estate tax is to be paid.

Wilson and Son operate this farm on the 50-50 basis and furnish all labor and equipment.

Other matters before the commissioners at Monday's meeting were merely routine, including approval of bills payable.

Other things being equal, large fence posts last longer than small ones.
